ANNUAL REVOLUTION OF THE EARTH ROUND THE SUN.

Fig. 2

Fig. 1.

The Centre Figure represents the Annual Revolution of the Earth around the Sun on its Orbit, which is an Ellipse, the eccentricity of which is about 583,691 leagues, and on the first of each Month. The graduated Circle which at a small distance surrounds the North Pole in each figure of the Earth, shows the Parallel of Great Britain; this Circle is divided into 24 hours.

The figure to the right marks the hour of Sun-rise, that to the left the hour of Sun-set. The point o indicates the position of Great Britain with reference to the Sun at the various hours of the Day and Night; for example, it is 2 o'clock A. M. on the first of June, and the horary Circle shows us that at this time the hour of Sunrise is 4h 3m, and that of Sun-set 7h 51m; the night therefore will continue 2h 3m longer. Again on the first of December the Sun rises at 7h 40m, and sets as the horary Circle indicates at 4h 4m, the time supposed being 1h 40m, the day will continue 2h 24m longer.

At this period of the Year the Earth approaches the Winter Solstice when its North Pole is enveloped in darkness for two Months will have reached the middle of its long Night.

Suppose a moving body M, subjected to the influence of two forces. One in the direction MS, the other in the direction Mv, the intensity being indicated by the right lines MP and M△ the moving body can neither go towards S. nor x. but must take an intermediate Course MO, with a Velocity represented by M→I is thus clear that the moving body My will take the same direction and have the same Velocity as One force represented in Magnitude by M→ and in direction by MO. would have imparted to it. The same Resultant or equivalent force is given to this. When a Curve is described by Virtue of a force directed to a fixed point S. it may be resolved into two—One in the direction of the Radius MS. the other of the Curve M. This accelerating force is supposed to act only at the beginning of each moment while the Motion is uniform the Vector Radius MS. then will trace a small triangle MS△ If this force ceased to act the following moments the Vector Radius would trace a fresh triangle equal to the first. But at the beginning of the next moment the accelerating force My k. combines with M B. and causes the moving body to exhibit the effects of the resultant force△ M the sides of which △ P. △ B represent these forces.

For some time after sunset the rays still illumine the Atmosphere diffusing themselves through space, and Night come on almost insensibly, this is called twilight and the dawn is a similar Phenomenon which precedes Sun rise. The Solar Ray S. O. which enters the Atmosphere at O. instead of coming out at M. will be turned aside refracted or bent more and more as it penetrates the various Strata of Air and will at last reach the Earth describing the Curve O. G. The observer at G. would thus see the Sun much longer at E than really was visible above the horizon. The effect of the dawn is the reverse of this—let the Earth be represented by A B. C. D. and G. where the Sun rises the horizon at H. G. R. receives light from all parts of the Heavens either directly or by reflection. the point A. at which the Sun has not actually risen, has above its horizon the lenticular portion of the Atmosphere K. LL. indirectly illuminated the dawn is most brilliant at K. the tint becoming more feeble until it reaches R. its utmost limit above the horizon at B. It is Midnight, and at D. where the Sun is Rising the whole of the horizon is illuminated while at C, the lenticular portions of the Heavens T N. X. only receive light. The extent of twilight is shown on the figure by a Zone of lighter shade than that which marks Night. Suppose M. the Meridian of London and it is noon at G. (90° West Long.) it is 6 A. M. and at Y. (45° West Long.) 9 o'Clock by the effect of Atmospheric reflection the Sun would appear to be at J. at Q. (45° East Long.) the Sun would appear at E. at 3 o'clock P. M. Thus as the Earth, the North Pole being at P. turns on its Axis from West to East, as indicated by the Arrows, the Sun will appear to occupy the opposite points F. J. S E. U. This figure is drawn at the time when the Sun appears to describe the Equator.

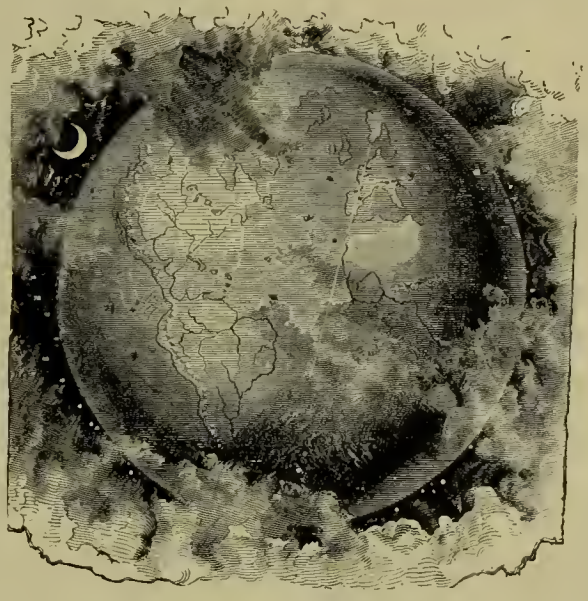
THE EARTH

THE origin of the earth is an unsolved, if not an insolvable mystery. Ingenious theories on this subject have been elaborated, but none of them have been actually verified. Kant, Laplace, and others, have devoted a good deal of study to the birth of the earth. Their ideas are interesting without being satisfactory, or worthy of more than mere reference in this connection. We know that it was a slow development. That much is certain. The records of geology show that "in the beginning" must have been millions, and probably billions, of ages ago, and that the present life, animal and vegetable, of the world, including man, must be of comparatively recent date. The commonly received opinion is that originally the planets were sparks from the sun, vast gaseous or liquid matter, and that, by a process of cooling and solidifying, was brought into existence the rocks, soil, and various transmutations which make up a habitable world. It is supposed that some planets are now going through the process of preparation for utility, and perhaps others, again, have literally outlived their usefulness.



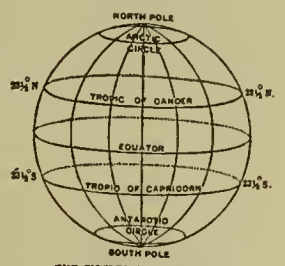
THE EARTH.

Earth history is written in the strata or crust of the earth. Each stratum represents and records a vast and distinct formative period. Geological scientists class the strata into five distinct geological periods—these consist of the silurian, the carboniferous, the cretaceous, the tertiary and the alluvial. The latter period is subdivided into the eocene, miocene, pliocene, and the diluvian, man first appearing in the latter. Other scientists divide the earth's history into seven ages, as follows: First, archæan, or before that of mollusks; second, age of mollusks; third, age of fishes; fourth, age of frogs and relative animals; fifth, age of true reptiles; sixth, age of mammals; seventh, age of man.

GEOGRAPHY is a description of the earth. The term is derived from two Greek words signifying "the earth" and "to describe." It may be divided into three departments—mathematical, physical or natural, and political geography.

Mathematical geography treats of the form, size and motions of the earth; of its division by circles, and of the representation of its surface upon globes, maps and charts. The earth is nearly round. Its curvature is not that of an exact sphere, but the form is that of an oblate spheroid "flattened at the poles." The polar diameter is 7,899 miles, and the equatorial, 7,925½, a difference of about 26½ miles. The calculations of scientists vary somewhat. Airy computed the polar diameter at 7,899.17 miles, equatorial, 7,925.64 miles, and the compression at the poles, 26.47 miles; Bessel computed the polar at 7,899.11, equatorial, 7,925.60, and the compression, 26.4 miles.

For convenience of reference the earth is divided by imaginary lines called the great and small circles. Great circles divide it into two equal parts—the equator is a great circle, the boundary between the Northern and Southern Hemispheres. Circles, for convenience of measurement, are divided into 360 degrees. A degree is 1-360 part of a circle, the length of the degree varying with the size of the circle. A degree on the equator is about 69½ English or American miles. As the circles of latitude grow smaller as their distance from the equator increases, the length of each degree lessens.



THE CIRCLES OF THE EARTH.

The Meridian circles are those great circles which pass through the poles. Each divides the earth into an Eastern and Western Hemisphere. A meridian is a half of a meridian circle and extends from pole to pole. Parallels are small circles parallel to the equator; the principal ones being the two tropics and the polar circles.

LATITUDE is distance north or south from the Equator. It is measured, in degrees, on a meridian. Places between the Equator and the North Pole are in north latitude; those between the Equator and the South Pole are in south latitude; those on the Equator have no latitude. The poles have the greatest possible latitude, which is 90 degrees.

LONGITUDE is distance east or west from a selected meridian. It is measured, in degrees, on the Equator or any parallel. The selected meridian is called the first meridian. The meridian in most common use is that which passes through Greenwich Observatory, near London. In the United States the meridian of Washington is sometimes used; places on the first meridian have no longitude. The greatest longitude is 180 degrees, east or west. A degree of any great circle measures 60 geographical miles, or about 69½ statute miles of the United States. A degree on the parallel of 60° is just half as long.

ZONES are broad belts or divisions of the earth's surface parallel to the Equator. They are bounded by the tropics and the polar circles. They are five in number: The Torrid, the North and South Temperate, and the North and South Frigid.

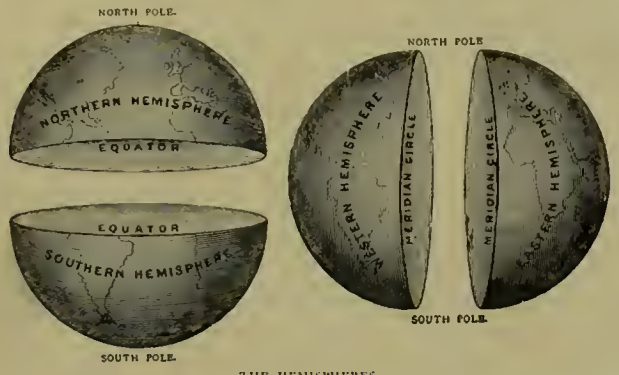
William Swinton in his excellent work presents in the following table a view of the several zones, with important particulars under the various topics of climate, vegetation, products of cultivation, animals, and population:

Climate.		Vegetation.	Products of Cultivation.	Animals.	Population.
Torrid Zone.	Marked by great and uniform heat, with two seasons, — the rainy and the dry; snow never seen except on high mountain-tops; days and nights of little variation in length.	Marked by a very great luxuriance: characteristic trees are palms and tree-ferns, mahogany, rosewood, caoutchouc, etc.	Cotton, coffee, sugar, rice, spices, oranges, bananas, etc.	Noted for their largeness, fierceness, and strength; characteristic types are the elephant, lion, cameloparil, rhinoceros, tiger, gorilla, crocodile, ostrich.	Generally of a dark complexion, and with few exceptions, not progressive or highly civilized; in most cases savages
Temperate Zones.	Marked by the four seasons, with hot summers and cold winters, and days and nights varying more in length than in Torrid Zone.	Oak, laurel, olive, etc., in the warm region; maple, elm, beech, oak, walnut, chestnut, etc., in the middle region; pine, fir, in the cold region.	Grains, potatoes, peas, beans, flax, hemp, the apple, the pear, rice, tobacco, cotton.	The domestic animals, as the horse, ox, sheep, camel, etc.; also deer, wolves, bears, etc.	The superior races of the world, noted for their great progress in wealth, intelligence, and enterprise.
Frigid Zones.	Marked by a long and intensely cold winter, and by a short but comparatively warm summer, with days lenghtening toward the Poles, where day and night are each six months long.	Exceedingly scanty, being almost confined to mosses and lichens.	Neither grain nor esculent fruits can be grown.	White bear, reindeer, and fur-bearing animals, with the whale, walrus, seal and sea-birds.	Scanty in numbers, and showing a low type of civilization.

PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY.—Treats of the land and water into which the earth's surface is divided: of the atmosphere which surrounds the earth, and of the animals and plants which live upon it. A little more than one-fourth of the surface of the earth is land, about 52,158,000 square miles, and the remainder water, 147,000,000 square miles. The Eastern Hemisphere contains more than twice as much land as the Western, the Northern nearly three times as much land as the Southern. At no point on the earth's surface is the great body of water entirely separated by land. It extends from pole to pole, and entirely encompasses each of the large masses of land on the surface of the earth.

The principal natural divisions of the land are continents and islands. Continents are large bodies of land. They are six in number: Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia in the Eastern Hemisphere, and North and South America in the Western Hemisphere. Islands are a body of land entirely surrounded by water. The chief distinction between a continent and an island is the difference in size.

The Continents comprise more than five-sixths of the land surface of the earth. They are often divided into two—the Eastern and Western Continents. The Eastern Continent is broad and compact in shape, and its greatest extent is from east to west. The Western is long and narrow and its greatest extent is from north to south.



THE HEMISPHERES.

The chief elevations of the land surface are mountains, table lands, or plateaus, and lowland plains. A mountain is a tract of land which rises considerably above the general surface.

Mountains are seldom found single, but are generally in groups or chains. A mountain chain is an irregular mass of elevated land, which is sometimes several thousand miles long and more than a hundred wide. A chain of mountains is also called a ridge, or range. A number of chains, extending in the same general direction, constitute what is called a mountain system. The highest point on the earth's surface is a mountain lately discovered in the Island of New Guinea, named Mt. Hercules. The greatest depression of the land surface is at the Dead Sea, 1,300 feet below the level of the ocean.

A volcano is a mountain which sends forth flames, melted rocks, clouds of steam, ashes, or other heated substance, from an opening called a crater. A table land or plateau is a broad extent of high land. Table lands are often crossed or bordered by mountain ranges. The breadth of a mountain is generally less than that of a plateau. A lowland plain is a broad extent of land not much above the level of the sea. A valley is land between hills or mountains. A desert is a barren tract of land. An oasis is a low, fertile spot in a desert.

The principal natural divisions of the water are divided into ocean water and drainage waters. The former are the great bodies of salt water that surround all the continents. Its five principal divisions are the Atlantic, the Pacific, the Indian, the Arctic and Antarctic oceans. A sea, gulf, bay, strait or channel are portions or arms of the ocean. The Drainage waters are rivers and lakes. A river is a large stream of fresh water. A lake is a body of water surrounded by land. The color of the ocean is generally a deep blue, but toward the coast it turns to a bluish green. The Pacific ocean has the greatest area. (See colored diagram, page 18.) The depth of the ocean varies from 1,000 to 30,000 feet. Its greatest depth is in the North Atlantic. Ocean currents are extensive and regular movements flowing through the ocean. They are caused by the winds and tides, the earth's rotation on its axis, and the heat of the sun. They may be constant or periodical. The former arises from permanent causes, as the earth's rotation and constant winds; the latter from periodical causes, as the tides, shifting winds, etc. The most extensive of the constant currents is the Equatorial current, caused by the earth's rotation. Other important currents are the Gulf Stream, the Japan stream, the Antarctic and Arctic, the East Greenland and the South Atlantic.

The Atmosphere covers the earth to a height of about fifty miles. The upper portions press upon the lower and make them denser. Nearly all the moisture and all animal and vegetable life are found within three and a half miles of the level of the sea, Heat causes air first to expand and become lighter, and second to absorb and render invisible large quantities of water. Cold produces opposite effect. The heat of the sun produces ascending currents of hot air, other air flows in to fill the space, hence we have winds or currents of air.

CLIMATE.—By the climate is meant the heat or cold moisture or dryness of the atmosphere. Climate may depend upon several circumstances, as distance from the equator, height above sea level, distance from the ocean, and the direction of the prevailing winds.

The hottest parts of the earth are the lowland plains of the Torrid zone, more particularly such as are far inland, or are near sandy desert regions. The coldest parts are those of the Frigid zones, or places near those zones, and unprotected from the icy winds. The mountain regions and plateaus between the tropics enjoy a perpetual spring, the heat being modified by the elevation. Lofty mountains everywhere are perpetually covered with snow. Ocean currents, as the Gulf stream, affect the climate of different countries. The western parts of Europe and North America are much warmer than other countries in the same latitude, on this account. Ocean winds communicate to the land the even temperature of the ocean, and transport the moisture exhaled from its surface to the interior of the continents, where it falls in the form of rain, dew, snow, etc. Mountains condense the vapors of the atmosphere. Hence, elevated regions or those near mountain ranges generally receive the most rain. More rain, however, falls on the coast regions than in the interior, and in tropical than in temperate countries. Climate is also greatly affected by the kind of soil and the extent of vegetation. The removal of forests renders the climate of a country warmer. The healthfulness of a climate depends chiefly upon its freedom from the noxious gases which arise from the decay of vegetable and animal matter.

The three kingdoms of nature are the mineral, vegetable and animal. Minerals—in regard to their uses to mankind, comprise three classes—force-producing minerals, industrial metals and building stones. The chief and most abundant force-producing mineral is coal. It is of vegetable origin and has been found in nearly every country in the world, both in lowland and highland. The leading industrial metals include iron, copper, nickel, zinc, gold and silver. Granite, marble and sandstone are the most valuable building stones.

VEGETATION.—The vegetable productions of the earth vary with the climate. It is most luxuriant in tropical countries, where the most important productions are yams, bananas, plantains, bread-fruit, cassava, sago, cocoa-nuts, and the cacao or cocoa tree. Many delicious fruits are also produced in the Torrid zone—such as pine-apples, oranges, lemons and citrons. The Temperate zones are the regions of the grape vine, the potato and of various grains, and of the beech, maple, oak and pine trees. In the Frigid zones trees dwindle into mere shrubs, and in the regions of perpetual snow no vegetation exists except a few minute plants that grow upon the surface of the snow. In ascending from the base of mountains and table-lands, the same changes in the character of vegetation are found as in going toward the poles; so that a tropical mountain of great elevation, possesses the climate and many of the productions of every zone.

ANIMALS.—The character of the animals which inhabit the earth varies with the climate and vegetation.

In the Torrid zone are found the largest, strongest, and most ferocious land animals. A great variety of birds, and vast numbers of dangerous reptiles and troublesome insects, are also found in this zone. The birds, fishes, insects, serpents, and many of the wild beasts, are adorned with the most brilliant and beautiful colors. In the temperate regions are the buffalo, bear, deer, wolf, fox, and wild-cat. Reptiles and insects become fewer, smaller, and less troublesome. The birds have not so gorgeous a plumage, but they are more melodious. In the Polar regions, the animals have a less brilliant color. There are no reptiles, and but few insects. In ascending from the base of tropical mountains, the same changes of animal life are found that are observed in passing from the equator to the poles.

RACES OF MEN.

MAN.—Whatever may be the conceits and fancies of the present age, it is generally admitted that man in his first estate was a savage of the lowest type. The annals of primeval man do not follow out any line of chronology with exactness, nor do they present to the mind individual types and details; they simply show us the stages by which the savage became a man capable of historic achievements. Horace, the Roman poet, was prophetic of what would be discovered centuries after him when he wrote: "When these brutes, now called men, first crawled out of the ground, a dumb and dirty lot, they fought for nuts and sheltering spots, with nail and fist; then with sticks; later with arms forged of metal. Then they invented names and words. With language and thought came cities, and some relief from strife." In the days of the mammoth man lived in caves—feeding on fruits, nuts and roots, on fish and flesh, by slow and gradual steps he emerged from the cavern of darkest savagery, he was still a hunter living by the chase, or a fisher as circumstances might determine. From hunting to pastoral life was the natural gradation; each of these were necessarily a migratory life. Pastoral life is succeeded by the agricultural. It is only when a people have so far progressed that they are tillers of the soil that permanent habitations are built, and stable institutions are formed.

Man was early endowed with a strong predilection for some sort of implement. Hence we have the stone and bronze age. The researches of archæology have traced out five distinct stages of the stone age. First came the rudest flints, mere chunks of stone. Next came flakes clipped from the rock, showing the dawn of creative or fashioning faculty. The third stage indicates some skill and art in the fashioning of the flint. The fourth age was the beginning of grinding or rubbing. The points are made sharp by attrition. The fifth stage brings the perfectly polished and quite artistic flint implements, which show constructive invention. Between the fifth or stone age and the bronze age intervened a sixth stage, transitional in character, in which copper, cold and crude, was hammered into shape. It was used like a stone, and not fused and fashioned in conformity to the peculiar properties of metals. It was treated as a kind of malleable stone. Very little creative progress was made anywhere during this stage.

PRIMITIVE MAN AND ANIMAL LIFE.

The seventh stage opens to view the bronze age proper. Then began the fusing of metals. The soft copper and hard tin were blended into the bronze of the prehistoric age.

Sir John Lubbock remarks that "the use of bronze weapons is characteristic of a particular phase in the history of civilization and one which was anterior to the discovery, or, at least, to the general use of iron. Soon after iron came pottery. Man found, not only the advantage of softening metals with fire, but of hardening clay with it. A mass of evidence proves that a stone age prevailed in every great district of the inhabited world, followed, as general progress was made, by the other ages named." As Figuier observes, "The development of man must have been doubtless the same in all parts of the earth, and in whatever country we may consider him, man must have passed through the same phases in order to arrive at his present state. He must have had everywhere his age of stone, his epoch of bronze, and his epoch of iron, in orderly succession."

The human race, found in nearly every part of the world, and adapted to nearly every variety of climate and soil, may be arranged into five general classes or races, namely:

1. The Caucasian, or White. 2. The Mongolian, or Yellow. 3. The Ethiopian, or Negro. 4. The Malay. 5. The American, or Indian.

I. The Caucasians take their name from the Caucasus, between the Black and Caspian Seas, where the people are noted for their great beauty; complexion fair, forehead full, hair soft, beard heavy. They are inhabitants of Southwestern Asia, Europe, America, and parts of Africa. They are noted for civilization and great intellect; said to number 600,000,000.

II. The Mongolians have a yellow complexion, a flat face, prominent cheek bones, oblique eyes, and coarse, straight black hair. They inhabit Asia, Arctic America, and Northeastern Europe. Their number is estimated at 589,000,000.

III. The Ethiopians, or Negroes, are quite black; forehead receding, nose flat, lips thick, jaw-bones prominent, hair black and woolly. They number about 185,000,000 and inhabit Africa.

IV. The Malays are of different shades of brown with head narrow, forehead low and broad, mouth large, hair and beard abundant, black and curly. They inhabit the Malay peninsula and the islands of Oceanica. Estimated number, 55,000,000.

V. The Americans, or Indians, are copper colored; broad face, prominent features, forehead low, cheek-bones high, hair straight, close, and black, and but little beard. Of this race are the native tribes of North and South America, with the exception of the inhabitants on the Arctic coasts. Estimated number, 11,000,000.

Political Geography treats of the division of the world into various Countries or States, and of the state of society, government, religion and occupation of the inhabitants. Nations are divided in respect to their social condition into four classes: 1. Savage. 2. Barbarous. 3. Half civilized. 4. Civilized or enlightened. Savages are those who live in tribes and are the lowest and most degraded class; they obtain their food by hunting and fishing. Barbarians are somewhat more advanced than the savage; they live in tents, possess flocks and herds, and practice a rude agriculture. Half-civilized nations carry on agriculture—have made considerable advance in mechanic arts; have towns and cities, but hold very little communication with foreign countries. Civilized nations are engaged in agriculture, manufactures, commerce—possessing a thorough division of labor, have established systems of education, and have reached the highest perfection. The civilized nations are nearly all Caucasian

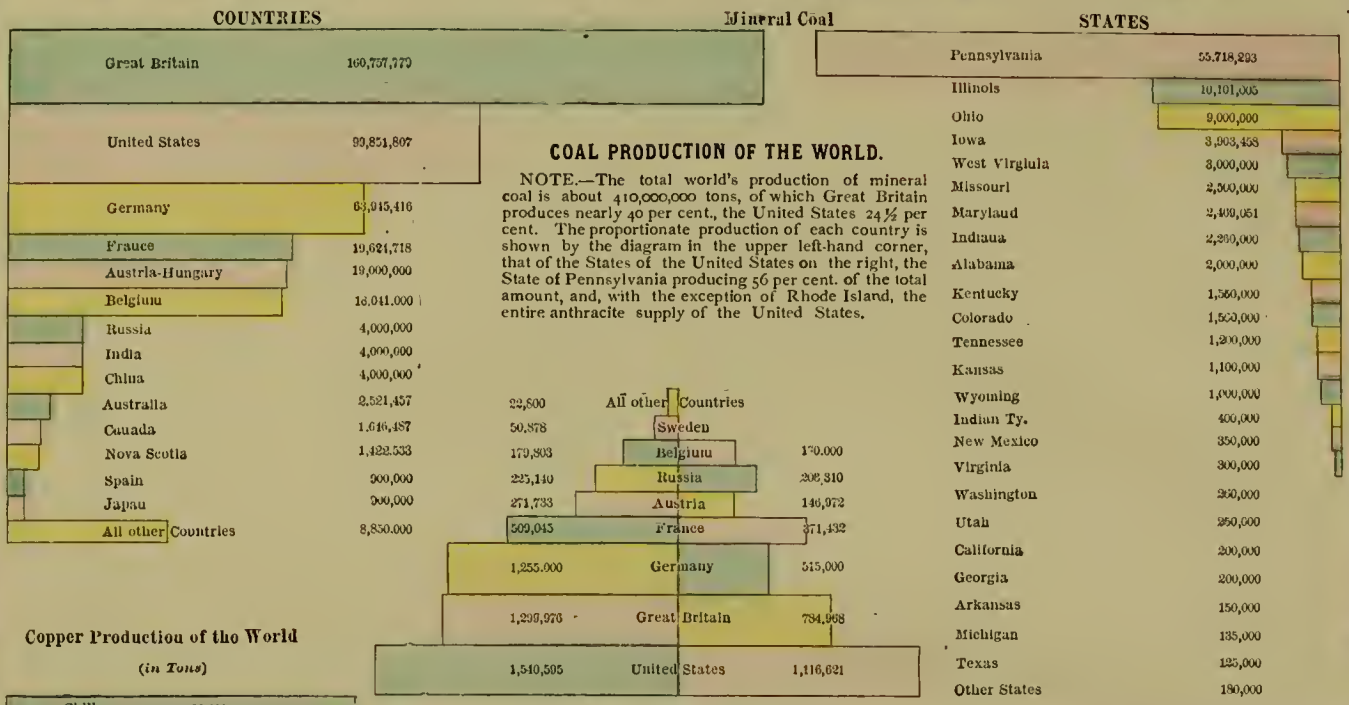
The World's Production of Coal, Iron, Steel, Copper and Lead.



COAL PRODUCTION OF THE WORLD.

NOTE.—The total world's production of mineral coal is about 410,000,000 tons, of which Great Britain produces nearly 40 per cent., the United States 24½ per cent. The proportionate production of each country is shown by the diagram in the upper left-hand corner, that of the States of the United States on the right, the State of Pennsylvania producing 56 per cent. of the total amount, and, with the exception of Rhode Island, the entire anthracite supply of the United States.

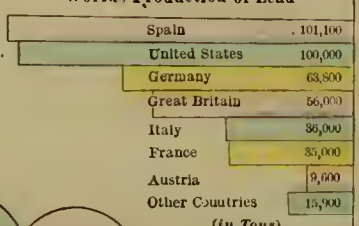
Worlds Production of Lead



PRODUCTION OF PIG IRON BY COUNTRIES AND STATES, in tons of 2,240 lbs.

NOTE.—The entire production of pig iron in the United States in 1890 was 9,579,779 of which Pennsylvania produced fully one-half. This enormous production is represented by the large center circle, around which are clustered smaller circles, showing the relative production of other States. The central diagram within the triangle shows the relative production of the leading Countries of the world, Great Britain producing over 38 per cent. of the entire world's production of 25,785,328 tons.

KEY TO VIEW OF HOLY LAND.

No. 1--BAALBEC.

Heliopolis, or "City of the Sun," as it is sometimes called, is situated in the valley between the Lebanon and Anti-Lebanon ranges of mountains, 160 miles north of Jerusalem. The Temple was of great extent, being 500 by 900 feet on either side. A part of the main building is still standing, supported by columns of immense size and length,—some of them being 60 feet high and from four to six feet in diameter. On the top of these columns are beautiful Corinthian capitals, finely carved, equal or superior to anything found in this country. At one place amid the ruins are found six of these immense columns standing upright, not having been shaken down by the earthquake. They can be seen at a long distance.

No. 8--DAMASCUS,

Is situated 147 miles east of the Anti-Lebanon range of mountains, on the plain, surrounded by large olive groves and mulberry trees, poplars, terebinths, etc., and looks beautiful from a distance. It is called "The Gem of the East"; the "Pearl of the Orient." It is a place of 120,000 inhabitants; is surrounded by walls, and has many beautiful mosques and minarets which look picturesque and graceful, seen from a distance. The river Abana runs through the city, supplying the inhabitants with water. The river Pharpar also runs across the plain south of the city and the whole plain is thus watered, and produces abundant crops. Damascus has a history of 4,000 years. Abraham obtained his here, on his way to the Holy Land. Naaman, the leper, lived here; Benhadad, also. I. Kings, 15-18.

No. 21, BEIRUT,

Is on the coast, 147 miles from Jerusalem, and is the seaport of Damascus, the capital of Lebanon, and has 80,000 inhabitants, 12 newspapers, many common schools, 3 Female Seminaries, 1 Medical College, a Normal School, and 8 High Schools.

No. 24, SIDON,

One of the oldest cities mentioned in the Bible, is situated also on the sea, and was founded by Sidon, the son of Canaan. It is a place of 10,000 inhabitants. Around and in the suburbs of the city are immense orange groves, and tropical fruits of all kinds grow there, also.

No. 34,--DAN,

A city in the north of Palestine, 25 miles north of the Sea of Galilee, situated on a hill at the base of Mt. Hermon. There are some old ruins to be found, placed in an oval form, covering about three-quarters of an acre. From the west side of the hill flows one of the tributaries of the Jordan River. Here the golden calf was set up to worship, by Jeroboam; here the tribe of Dan lived, 149 miles north of Beersheba.

No. 55, TYRE,

Is also on the coast, and about 25 miles south of Sidon. It is built out on a peninsula or neck of land extending into the sea. It was formerly on an island, and was strongly fortified—so much so that Nebuchadnezzar laid siege to the city for a space of twelve years without success, and abandoned it; but Alexander captured it after a siege of six months, building a bridge or causeway out to the island with the ruins of the old city. It is a city of 8,000 inhabitants to-day, and a "place to spread nets upon."

No. 57,--ACCHO,

Or Ptolmais, is 8 miles north of Mt. Carmel, on the Bay of Accho, a picturesque looking city of about 8,000 inhabitants. It was so strong a city that the Israelites never completely subdued it. Viewed from the north, at a little distance off, the city appears planted with trees, and presents an attractive appearance; but within the streets are narrow and dirty. It was here that the most fearful and bloody contest of the Crusades took place, and it was the last place of any importance in which the Crusaders held out against the Saracens. Its common European name is St. Jean de Acre.

No. 102,--NAZARETH,

Is found in the picture of the Holy Land 65 miles north of Jerusalem, in a valley, amid the hills of Galilee. It is picturesquely situated, as it is surrounded on all sides by hills, with a beautiful valley opening out in front of it. It is a place of 8,000 inhabitants. It was the home of our Saviour during his childhood. The fountain from whence the inhabitance draw water is a little way out of the city. The hill of precipitation, over which the enraged Jews would have thrown the Saviour, is a little to the north-west.

No. 119, SAMARIA,

Is 30 miles, a little west of north from Jerusalem, situated on a hill that rises up out of a beautiful valley. It was once the capital of Israel, and was built by Omri, and surrounded with a wall, B. C. 925. It was rebuilt by Herod in the time of our Saviour, and many beautiful palaces erected, the columns of which stand to-day in many places, some of them 30 feet in height, with Corinthian capitals on the top. Here is found the reputed tomb of John the Baptist, covered by the ruins of the church called by his name—found on the top of the hill.

150, JERUSALEM,

The "Holy City," is situated among the mountains, 2,540 feet above the level of the Mediterranean Sea; is a city of 30,000 inhabitants of various sects and denominations—Mahoumedans, Jews, Turks, Christians, &c. The city stands on the site of the old city, 80 feet above the original foundation, on Mt. Zion and Mt. Moriah. The walls of the city are from 30 to 75 feet in height and 12 feet in thickness. There are 10 gates, 5 open and 5 closed. The streets are very narrow. The prominent buildings in the city are the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, Mosque of Omar, Jewish and Arminian Synagogues, Mosque of Elaksa, Church of St. Ann, Castle of Goliah, etc. Seen from the Mt. of Olives, the city looks picturesque, but it is now only a shadow of its former greatness and beauty—when it was the wonder of the world and "the joy of the whole earth."

193, BETHANY,

Is found just over the Mount of Olives, 2 miles from Jerusalem, on the road to Jericho. It is a small village, where some ancient ruins are to be found.

190, BETHLEHEM,

Is 5 miles south of Jerusalem, on a hill, and a city of 8,000 inhabitants. A large church stands over the place where tradition says that the Saviour was born. In one of the large rooms lamps are kept continually burning, and in the floor is a silver star which indicates the place, over the cave, where the shepherds are said to have found the Saviour in the manger.

208, HEBRON,

Is situated in a valley, 18 miles south of Jerusalem, and contains about 10,000 inhabitants. It was the home of Abraham, and no doubt his remains could be found to-day in the cave of Machpelah, where he was buried, and where he buried his wife Sarah.

233.--DEAD SEA,

The Dead Sea is a singular body of water, being 46 miles long and 10 miles wide, surrounded by high and rugged mountains, 2,000 and 3,000 feet in height. The water is one-quarter salt, and contains bitumen, potassium and many kinds of acid, making it unpleasant to the taste. No fish can live in it.

234.--SEA OF CALILEE,

This beautiful sea is in the northern part of the Holy Land, and is 13 miles long, 6 miles wide, and 600 feet below the Mediterranean. Ruins of the cities of Capernaum and Chorazin are found on its shores. Here the Saviour made his home, and 22 out of the 35 miracles which he wrought were performed upon or near this sea.

THE RIVER JORDAN,--g.

The River Jordan runs almost the entire length of the Holy Land, and is called the Descender. It is 1,700 feet above the Mediterrancan Sea at its source, and at its mouth, where it empties into the Dead Sea, it is 1,300 feet below the Mediterranean—falling 3,000 feet in its course of 200 miles.

The exact extent of the Holy Land as given to Abraham in the original promise, and as more minutely defined in a subsequent renewal of the original charter (Num. xxiv: 1-12) is not easily determined at this distance of time, when localities of many places are lost. It is evident the Israelites did not actually possess the full extent of territory embraced in the original grant, and it is further evident that two different boundaries of the land are given in two different places. According to the above passage from Numbers, the length of the Promised Land, north and south, is about 180 miles, and its breadth, east and west, about 90 miles at the south end and about 40 miles at the northern limit. This variation is occasioned by the slope of the Mediterranean coast in a southwesterly direction.

In Genesis God said to Abraham, "Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates."

The smallness of Palestine often elicits surprise, when the number of people that inhabited it are considered and the magnitude of the events that have there transpired. It is about as large as the States of Connecticut and Rhode Island combined, and has an area of some 12,000 square miles.

The general surface of the country is mountainous, but these mountains often stand in majestic contrast with broad, flowing, fertile valleys, beautiful plains, verdant hills, or, perhaps, are spread out upon their sides and summits into rich table lands. There are many barren mountains and plains, and frightful desserts.

Moses said to the Israelites: "The land whither thou goest in to possess it, is a land of hills and valleys, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven; a land which the Lord thy God careth for."

POLITICAL PARTIES OF THE UNITED STATES.

INTRODUCTION — PROGRESS OF THE COLONIES TO NATIONAL UNION, 1607-1789.

First Steps Toward Colonial Liberty and Union, 1607-43.

1607. First permanent English settlement in America, at Jamestown, Virginia—105 persons, with few laborers or artisans and no families. The planting of English colonies in America had been provided for, the year before, by two royal letters-patent, to the London and Plymouth companies.

 The government of England at that time was a monarchy limited by Magna Charta, (obtained in 1215,) and subsequent laws, but persistently aiming at arbitrary power, while parliament (known by that name at least since 1272, and working under its present constitution since about fifty years later,) which, however, represented only the upper classes, labored with equal persistence to curb the royal pretensions and abolish the most odious of the assumed prerogatives.

1614. New Amsterdam, now New York, and Fort Orange, now Albany, occupied by Dutch traders, in virtue of the discovery of that region, five years before, by Henry Hudson, in the service of the Netherlands.

 The political troubles in England and the persecution of Puritans and Independents induced many of these to emigrate. Their principles of brotherhood, freedom and equality, restricted however by the qualification of church fellowship, found free scope and took deep root in America.

1620. Arrival of the Pilgrim Fathers (refugees in Holland since 1609) at Cape Cod, in New England, (so named in 1614). First political union of free and equal men formed by them in "The Compact of Liberty," as follows: "In the name of God, Amen. We, whose names are hereunder written [41 male adults,] the loyal subjects of our dread sovereign lord, King James.... having undertaken for the glory of God and advancement of the Christian Faith and honor of our king and country, a voyage to plant the first colony in the northern part of Virginia, do by these presents, solemnly and mutually, in the presence of God and one another, covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic for our better ordering and preservation and furtherance of the ends aforesaid, and by virtue hereof, to enact, constitute and frame such just and equal laws, ordinances, acts, constitutions and offices, from time to time, as shall be thought most meet and convenient for the general good of the colony, and to which we promise all due submission and obedience. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names at Cape Cod, this eleventh day of November.... Anno Domini, 1620." Plymouth Colony founded by the Pilgrim Fathers.

 In England a growing hatred of despotism and love of freedom. Puritans, Independents, constitutional monarchists and republicans opposed to the supporters of the divine right of kings. Parliament clamoring for its rights; its leaders imprisoned by the king. The rise of political parties in the modern sense—the Court and Country parties.

1621. First written constitution, given to Virginia, granted an elective legislature and trial by jury. First Navigation Act, prescribing export of Virginia tobacco direct to England. First Charter or patent to John Pierce and associates from the Council of Plymouth, for the benefit of the Plymouth colony.

1623. Settlements at Dover and Portsmouth in Laconia, now New Hampshire, under patents to Mason and Gorges. First permanent settlement in New Netherlands of thirty Walloon families, at and near New Amsterdam.

 First debate on colonial affairs in parliament: "America," said Calvert, "is not annexed to the realm nor within the jurisdiction of parliament; you have therefore no right to interfere." "We make laws for Virginia," said a member; "a bill passed by the Commons and the Lords, if it receives the king's assent, will control the patent." An act was passed granting freedom of commerce without regard to the alleged rights of the patentees or proprietors of colonial settlements. Resolution of Parliament granting "freedom from all impeachment, imprisonment or molestation" for the words or acts of members while in session. By the impeachment of the Earl of Middlesex it established the constitutional privilege of enforcing the responsibility of royal officials to the representatives of the people. 1625 Accession of Charles I. Conflict with parliament, and its dissolution by the king. 1626. Continued insubordination, imprisonment of leaders, second dissolution; forced loans and arbitrary taxation by the king; indignation of the people.

1627. Purchase by the Plymouth colonists from the non-emigrating members, of the remaining interest in the colony.

1628. First Union of New England settlements for the suppression of Morton of Merry Mount, now Braintree, Mass.

 In England, "The Petition of Rights," embodying the most pressing grievances, agreed to by both houses and reluctantly accepted by the king.

1629. First Charter to the Governor and Colony of Massachusetts Bay. Arrival of Puritans at Salem and Charlestown. The government transferred to the colonists, with the right to elect governor, deputy-governor and eighteen assistants, constituting the "General Court" or legislature. In New Netherlands, the establishment of "Patroons," or founders of colonies of not less than fifty persons, with the right of lordship or government under a "Charter of Liberties," granted by the Dutch West India Company.

 Parliament dissolved and not again convened for eleven years, because of its opposition to arbitrary taxation by the king.

1630. Charter of Plymouth colony granted to William Bradford and others, with a right to the soil, previously withheld. The arrival of 1,000 Puritans gave rise to several new settlements in Massachusetts Bay Colony. Local Self-Government in these settlements. First "General Court" of Massachusetts Bay, held in Boston. Carolana, now North and South Carolina, granted by the king to Robert Heath.

1631. Franchise Limited to church members by the second "General Court" of Massachusetts Bay. "Laconia" divided by Mason and Gorges, the proprietors, the former taking what he named New Hampshire, and the latter taking all to the east thereof. Warwick's patent to Connecticut, granted in 1630, transferred to Lord Say and Seal, Lord Brooke and others.

1632. Maryland granted to Lord Baltimore. Sixteen delegates sent to general court of Massachusetts Bay, by eight towns of the colony. Plymouth Colony passed an act imposing a penalty for declining office—$100 for refusing to be governor, and $50 for refusing to be a councillor or magistrate.

1633. First election of selectmen in the Massachusetts towns.

1634. Maryland settled by a Catholic colony, with representative government and religious toleration. English Commission appointed to supervise colonial affairs, with the right to revoke charters. Preparation for resistance in Boston, and refusal to surrender charter. 24 delegates from towns obtained seats in the general court. Allegiance sworn to colonial authorities instead of the crown, in Massachusetts, by the "Freeman's Oath."

 In England various forms of illegal taxation. These and other abuses upheld by the court of star-chamber and other venal tribunals.

1635. First representative assembly in Maryland; its laws declared void by Lord Baltimore, who claimed the right to initiate legislation. Renewed attempts to withdraw its charter from Massachusetts Bay in the interest of the English patentees. First voting by ballot, for delegates to the general court of Massachusetts Bay. First grand jury at Boston. Political disturbances in Maryland and Virginia. First Puritan settlement in Connecticut, from Plymouth Colony.

1636. Town government in Massachusetts recognized by law of general court. Puritan colony at Hartford. The governor of Virginia sent back by Charles I. to rule the province, "if but for a day," in denial of the pretensions of the colonists. Providence, R. I., founded by Roger Williams and associates, under a compact: "To submit themselves in active and passive obedience to all such orders and agreements as should be made for the public good of the body in an orderly way, by major consent of the present inhabitants, masters of families, incorporated together into a township, and such others as they shall admit into the same, only in civil things." No taxation in Plymouth Colony except by consent of the freemen in public assembly. First code of laws of Plymouth Colony compiled. Military union of New England Colonies in the Pequod War.

 In England, trial of John Hampden for resistance to illegal taxation.

1637. First project of political union of colonies, proposed by Plymouth to Massachusetts Bay, in May, and by Connecticut in August, failed because "the apprehensions of Connecticut dictated such extreme reserve in relation to grants of power to the proposed Confederacy, that Massachusetts did not deem it advisable to promote the scheme."

 Renewal of Navigation Act of 1621, requiring the shipment of Virginia tobacco direct to England.

1638. Disinclination to union. "Because some pre-eminence was yielded to Massachusetts," Connecticut favored the right of veto in each colony on the acts of the confederacy, by which arrangement Massachusetts claimed "all would have come to nothing." Second colony in Rhode Island by Coddington and other friends of Anne Hutchinson, under the compact: "We, whose names are underwritten, do hereby solemnly, in the presence of Jehovah, incorporate ourselves into a body politic, and as He shall help, will submit our persons, lives and estates unto our Lord Jesus Christ, the King of kings and Lord of lords, and to all those perfect and absolute laws of His Holy Word of Truth, to be judged and guided thereby." They chose a governor, deputy-governor and five assistants.

Exeter colony established in what is now New Hampshire by dissenters from Massachusetts. New Haven colony established by fresh arrivals of Puritans from England, who formed this "Plantation Covenant:"

"That, as in matters that concern the gathering and ordering of a church, so likewise in all public offices which concern civil order, as choice of magistrates and officers, making and repealing of laws, dividing allotments of inheritance, and all things of like nature, they would be ordered by the rules which the Scripture held forth."

Surrender of Charter of Massachusetts again refused to demand of royal commissioners. Swedish Colony settled on the Delaware.

1639. Project of Colonial Union renewed by Connecticut, was rejected by Massachusetts, "not being satisfied with having an equal vote in the Confederacy with the smaller colonies." A constitution framed by Connecticut colonists, the assembly comprising an elected representative from each town, besides the governor and six magistrates elected by the whole colony. A house of burgesses provided for in Maryland, to consist of representatives elected by the people. First printing press, at Cambridge, Mass. First assembly of New Haven Colony. Settlement at Brunswick, in "the province of Maine," put itself under the government of Massachusetts Bay. The Government of Plymouth Colony changed from universal to representative democracy. Newport, R. I., colony established by dissenters from Anne Hutchinson's colony.

1640. Number of colonists of all ages in New England since the landing of the Pilgrims, about twenty-ons thousand.

 Meeting of the Long Parliament, which, despite some drawbacks, did more for the progress of civil liberty than any parliament before or since.

1641. The Charter of Plymouth Colony surrendered by Wm. Bradford to the whole body of freemen. "The body of Liberties" of Massachusetts Bay, a constitution or code of 100 enactments, providing among other matters, that "there shall never be any bond slavery, villeinage or captivity among us, unless it be lawful captives taken in war, such as willingly sell themselves or are sold to us;" and that "there should be no monopolies, but of such new inventions as were profitable to the country, and that for a short time only."

 Taxation without consent of parliament abolished in England, also the court of star-chamber, the high commission court and all arbitrary tribunals. 1642. Beginning of the Civil War. The designations Court and Country parties give place, for a time, to Royalist and Republican, nicknamed Cavaliers and Roundheads respectively, by their opponents.

1642. Committee on colonial union appointed by Massachusetts Bay to confer with similar representatives of other colonies. House of burgesses in Virginia authorized by the king, the upper house to comprise the governor and council. Religious-political feuds in Maryland retard the progress of the colony.

1643. Toleration of all Forms of Religion in Rhode Island. Religious Intolerance in Virginia; all nonconformists to the Church of England ordered "to depart the colony with all convenience." Servitude in punishment of crime abolished in Virginia. All exports and imports of New England exempted from duty by Parliament.

United Colonies of New England established by delegates from the colonies of Plymouth, Connecticut, New Haven and the General Court of Massachusetts Bay, mainly for mutual protection against their enemies, the union which was only an advisory body, to consist of two commissioners from each colony. Such as it was it lasted until 1686. Rhode Island was not invited because its people were regarded as schismatics, and when it sought admission was refused unless it would submit to Plymouth Colony.

Enlarged Area and Scope of Colonial Liberty and Union. First Steps toward Freedom of Religion and Free Schools. 1644-90.

1644. Union of Colonies in Rhode Island under a charter with a more democratic government. Division of the general court of Massachusetts into two chambers, insuring greater freedom to the direct representatives of the people.

1645. Progress in New Netherlands promoted by treaty with Indians. Slavery discountenanced in Massachusetts by return of two kidnapped slaves. Civil war in Maryland, eventuating some years later in extension of popular privileges.

1646. Colonial freedom vindicated by Governor Winslow, of Plymouth Colony, from disloyalty to England.

1647. Complete freedom of religion established by assembly of Rhode Island: "All men may walk as their consciences persuade them, without molestation—every one in the name of his God."

 In England the republican army under Cromwell overpowered ons parliament and seized the king, who rejected the proposal of biennial parliaments, equal and popular representation, and liberty of conscience with curtailment of privileges of Church of England. 1649. Execution of the king; abolition of monarchy and of the House of Lords; establishment of the Commonwealth.

1649. Free schools established by law in Maseachueetts; Intolerance in Virginia; political discrimination against Puritans; population of Virginia, 15,000 whites, 300 negroes. Act of toleration in Maryland, granting freedom of worship to all Christian eects. The Commonwealth willingly accepted by New England; Virginia, loyal to royalty, proclaimed Charlee II. king, whence ite name of "Old Dominion."

1650. Colonial Peace and Progress promoted by settlement of boundary dispnte between New Haven and New Netherlande hy a Joint Commission. General Assembly of Maryland divided into two chambers; no taxation without consent of lower house established. Colony established on Chowan River, in what ie now North Carolina.

 In England Military government under sanction of the "Rump" Parliament (comprising about 80 members of the Long Parliament) who distributed most of the offices among themselves and appointed a Council of State to administer the government.

1651. Attempted Subversion of the charter of Rhode Island, with a view to its absorption hy the larger colonies. Colonial commerce forbidden to foreign vessels by English Navigation Act—first appearance of the prohibitive eyetem in commerce.

1652. Submission of Virginia to the Commonwealth, taxation only witb coneent of the aseemhly and other principlee of political liberty being guaranteed. Proprietary government in Maryland temporarily abolished by the Commonwealth. Slave trade, and elavery of more than ten years abolished in Rhode Island; they had never existed in Providence Plantation; both authorized in New Netherlands. Popular freedom in New Netherlands in conflict with Governor Stuyvesant. Demand for elective municipal government for New Amsterdam granted by the States General after having een refused by the governor, who strongly disapproved of such "imprudent entrusting of power with the people."

 The Long Parliament, as represented by the "Rump," dissolved by Cromwell, who became by the grace of its successor, "Barebones' Parliament," Lord Protector of the Three Kingdoms. The vigorous but arbitrary and personal government of the protector a more severe but a less deeply rooted despotism than that of the late king. 1654. The new parliament—400 members for England and 30 each for Scotland and Ireland, with electoral qualification of £200, freehold or movable—peremptorily dissolved witbout passing a single bill.

1654. Disfranchisement of Roman Catholics in Maryland by the Protestant majority in the aseembly; violent antagouism of Catholic and Protestant parties resulted in temporary anarchy; the commissionere ordered by Cromwell, "not to husy themselves ahout religion, but to settle the civil government."

1655. European sovereignties in America diminiehed by the conquest of New Sweden hy New Netherlands. Civil War in Maryland; defeat of the Catholic party.

 In England a conspiracy to restore the monarchy crushed; the country divided into twelve military governments.

1656. First arrival of Quakers in New England; their arrest and imprieonment in Boston under the general law against heretice, and re-ehipment to England.

1732. South Carolina Gazette and Rhode Island Gazette established. Royal charter for colonizing Georgia with released poor debtors. Export of colonial manufactures forbidden by the "hat act." "I will leave the taxation of America," said Walpole, "to some of my successors who have more courage than I have."

1733. All sugar imported into the colonies taxed under the "importation act." First Georgia colony, 35 families, settled at Savannah; slavery and rum excluded; Jewish colonists received despite the remonstrances of the Georgia trustees in England. Massachusetts' remonstrance against official encroachments rebuked by the home government, "as a high insult tending to shake off the dependence of the colony upon the kingdom." Indian treaties at Philadelphia and in Georgia.

1734. Freedom of colonial press vindicated by the aquittal of the publisher of the New York Weekly Journal, which had opposed the claim of the governor for unearned "back pay."

1736. The Virginia Gazette established. Increase of the Georgia colony by the arrival of Wesleyans and Moravians.

1738. Slave insurrection in South Carolina quelled.

1739. Stamp act proposed by Governor Keith of Pennsylvania.

1740. First law defining slavery in South Carolina.

 A motion of censure in parliament of Walpole's unscrupulous system of political corruption, defeating opposition by purchasing the necessary majority. His secret service outlay from 1732 to 1742 was £1,453,460, relatively a much larger sum then than now.

1741. The General Magazine and Historical Chronicle issued by Franklin. Panic in New York, from apprehension of a negro insurrection, subsided only after burning and hanging some of the alleged conspirators.

1742. Patent declined by Franklin, on his stove, on the ground that, "as we are benefited by the inventions of others, we should be willing to devote our own to the general welfare."

1743. Georgia colony deprived of the fostering care of its founder, Oglethorpe, by his return to England.

1744. King George's War begun, the American section of the war of the Austrian succession. Treaty of Lancaster, Pa., to forestall French intrigues with Indians of the English colonies.

1745. The fall of Louisburg, "the Gibraltar of America," "filled Europe with amazement and America with joy" at the prowess of the colonial troops, and exerted no little influence on the progress of the colonies toward independence.

1747. Surrender of impressed seamen at Boston to the demand of the citizens.

1748. Opposition of New York assembly to the demands of royal officials. Arbitrary colonial government promoted, and the English constitution menaced by the doctrine of the divine right of kings and the duty of non-resistance. King George's War closed by Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle. First export of cotton, a small lot from Charleston. Manufacture of fire-arms in Massachusetts.

1749. Stamp act suggested by a royal official of Boston. First female academy, by Moravians, at Bethlehem, Pa. Peace of Georgia menaced by the intrigues with the half-breed "queen of the Cresks."

1750. Divine right of kings and non-resistance vigorously denounced from a Boston pulpit—an "impious bargain," said Mayhew, "between the sceptre and the surplice;" a "fabulous and chimerical" doctrine; if rulers oppress, resistance is "lawful and glorious." Colonial manufactures of iron declared "a common nuisance" by parliament, and prohibited under a penalty of £200.

1751. Colonial union urged from a royal official standpoint. The receiver-general of New York recommended that there should be held by authority of parliament, "an annual meeting of commissioners from all the colonies at New York or Albany. From upwards of 40 years' observation upon the conduct of provincial assemblies, and the little regard paid by them to instructions," he was satisfied that "a British parliament must oblige them to contribute, or the whole would end in altercation and words."

1752. Colonial union projected by Franklin, who declared that, "a voluntary union entered into by the colonies themselves would be preferable to one imposed by parliament; for it would be perhaps not much more difficult to procure, and more easy to alter and improve, as circumstances should require and experience direct." Colonial affairs more fully entrusted to the Board of Trade and Plantations in England.

1753. Colonial taxation urgently pressed by the Board of Trade to obtain "a revenue with which to fix settled salaries on the northern governors and defray the cost of Indian alliances."

1754. The French and Indian War, begun by a conflict between the colonial pioneers of England and France in America, and destined to settle the conflicting colonial claims of the two nations, was not formally declared until May 17, 1756, in Europe, where it became known as the Seven Years' War, 1756–63.

Franklin's plan of colonial union, or general constitution of the colonies, adopted at Albany by a convention of twenty-five delegates from seven colonies—New York 5, Massachusetts 5, New Hampshire 4, Pennsylvania 4, Connecticut 3, Rhode Island and Maryland 2—Connecticut's members alone dissenting.

It provided for a president-general, to be appointed and paid by the crown, and a grand council, to be elected by the colonial assemblies, "in proportion to the money arising out of each colony to the general treasury," "yet so as that the number to be chosen by any one province be not more than seven nor less than two," with stated annual meetings, "power to choose their speaker," power to make general laws, affecting Indian relations, new settlements, army and navy—"but they shall not impress men in any colony without the consent of the legislature;" to levy taxes—"rather discouraging luxury than loading industry with unnecessary burthens;" all laws made by them "shall not be repugnant, but as near as may be agreeable to the laws of England, and shall be transmitted to the king in council for approbation," having previously received the assent of the president-general in America.

As the compromises of statesmen are always objectionable to extremists, the "Plan of Union" was rejected. "The Assemblies all thought there was too much prerogative in it, and in England it was thought to have too much of the democratic," wrote Franklin.

Colonial Liberty and Union Stimulated by the Exactions of the British Government, 1755-65.

1755. Future independence foreshadowed: "In another century," wrote John Adams in his diary, "all Europe will not be able to subdue us. The only way to keep us from setting up for ourselves is to disunite us." Permanent settlement on the Penobscot by immigrants from Massachusetts.

1756. War declared between England and France, by the former on May 17, and by the latter on June 7. The campaign in America not important, but rather to the advantage of the French.

 William Pitt, prime minister of England.

1757. Restoration of Liberty in Pennsylvania attempted by commissioning Franklin as agent to England, "to represent the unhappy state of the province, that all occasion of dispute hereafter might be removed by an act of the British legislature." Anti-colonial resolution in parliament, "that the claim of right in a colonial assembly to raise and apply public money by its own act alone, is derogatory to the crown and to the rights of the people of Great Britain," promoted discontent in the colonies. Disasters of the campaign felt by the colonists to be largely due to the inefficiency or cowardice of the English commanders, and accompanied by a deepening sense of the injustice of being required to supply men and money for operations in the management of which they had no voice. Somewhat more than half the army were colonial troops, and taxation became so heavy that it sometimes took two-thirds the income of colonial landowners.

1758. Massachusetts insisted on controlling its own war-fund. Campaign favorable to English and colonial arms—the capture of Louisburg, Fort Frontenac and Fort Du-Quesne. Treaty of Easton, Pa., with Indian tribes, north and west of the Ohio.

1759. Project of stamp act rejected by Pitt: "I will never burn my fingers," said he, "with an American stamp act." Progress of South Carolina retarded by ill treatment of Cherokees and the resulting war with that tribe. British and colonial arms successful—capture of forts Niagara, Ticonderoga, Crown Point and Quebec.

1760. War with the French ended by conquest of Canada, and the promised surrender of western out-posts, and war with their Indian allies temporarily suspended. Colonial discontent increased by fresh orders for enforcement of navigation acts. Colonial self-government advocated by Franklin before the Board of Trade and Plantations in England, and generally accepted by American leaders as a right inherent in the people. Population of the colonies estimated at 310,000 blacks, and 1,385,000 whites, marked by great diversity of social, religious and race views and customs, and yet becoming gradually impressed with the sense of an underlying identity of interests as against England, and the necessity of less intolerant and antagonistic relations among themselves, but with little opportunity for wide interchange of views between the inhabitants of the different, and especially the more distant colonies.

 Accession of George III., who with the aid of the Tory party ruled as well as reigned, especially after Lord North became premier in 1770. Hence all the attacks on American liberty have been justly regarded as royal acts.

1761. Writs of assistance from the supreme court of Massachusetts in support of the alleged right, under the importation act of 1733, of universal search for smuggled goods, argued before the court by James Otis, who inveighed against them "as instruments of slavery on the one hand, and villainy on the other." "Then and there," said John Adams in later years, "was the first scene of the first act of opposition to the arbitrary claims of Great Britain. Then and there the child Independence was born." Slave trade discountenanced by heavy duties in Virginia and South Carolina. Subservience of colonial judiciary promoted by grant of commissions to remain in force during the pleasure of the king.

1763. Canada and Florida ceded to England by Treaty of Paris, closing the Seven Years' War. Future independence of colonies promoted by cession of Canada: "There now," said a French statesman, "we have arranged matters for an American rebellion in which England will lose her empire in the West." This view was shared by some Tory statesmen in England, who thought that the continuance of French dominion in Canada would tend to insure the permanent dependence and loyalty of the British colonies to the mother country. English domination in the West vainly resisted by the late Indian allies of the French, under Pontiac. Confiscation of vessels engaged in the contraband sugar trade with the colonies ordered by parliament, almost destroying colonial commerce with the West Indies. Colonial taxation and representation declared inseparable. The imposition of taxes only by the representatives of the people claimed by the colonists to be their constitutional right as Englishmen; and as they were represented only in their colonial assemblies, to these alone belonged the right to levy taxes and duties; great speech of Samuel Adams, in Boston, in vindication of the principle. "If we are not represented in the body that taxes us, and we submit," said he, "we are slaves."

1764. The right of taxing the colonies insisted on, by resolution of the British House of Commons. Great agitation throughout the colonies; contrary resolutions passed everywhere; formal remonstrances addressed to the king and the two houses of parliament; and colonial agents sent to England to prevent if possible the passage of the act. Boundary controversy between New Hampshire and New York, involving the settlements in what became Vermont, decided in England in the interest of the royal officials of New York, subjecting settlers to re-purchase of lands.

1765. Colonial taxation by parliament established by passage of American stamp act. Patrick Henry's resolutions in the House of Burgesses of Virginia proclaimed the principle of no taxation without consent of the body which represents those who pay the taxes, and were adopted by a majority of one. American congress proposed by James Otis in the general court of Massachusetts.

Colonial congress or convention at New York, sometimes called the stamp act congress, composed of twenty-seven delegates from nine colonies New York 5; Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and South Carolina, 3 each; Rhode Island and Delaware, 2 each—"without the least claim of pre-eminence, one over the other." Lettera of concurrence were received from the assemblies of Virginia, New Hampshire, North Carolina and Georgia. "We should stand," said a South Carolina delegate, "upon the common ground of those natural rights that we feel and know as men. . . . There ought to be no New-England man, no New-Yorker, known on the continent, but all of us Americans." They adopted a declaration of rights, a petition to the king, and a memorial to both houses of parliament. In England its suggestions were ignored and it was sneered at in parliament as "a federal union assembled without any requisition on the part of the supreme power."

Colonial Liberty and Union Promoted by the Attempts of Great Britain to Enforce Taxation, by Defensive Organizations, and by Correspondence between Colonial Assemblies—the Unarmed Struggle. 1765-75.

1765. Union Promoted by General Resistance to Stamp Act, which was characterized as "the folly of England and the ruin of America." Stamps destroyed or reshipped; stamp officers burned in effigy and forced to fly or resign; Sons of Liberty organized under a pledge to defend liberty and resist oppression with their lives, if necessary; colonial importers agreed not to trade with England until the act should be repealed; Daughters of Liberty and other societies, pledged to the making and wearing of home-spun, organized. "Nothing will now save us," wrote Gadsden, "but acting together. The province that endeavors to act separately must fall with the rest, and he branded besides with everlasting infamy." Whig and Tory, as party names, came into more general use—respectively, the friends and foes of the people.

1766. Delusive hope of freedom on repeal of stamp act. The right of colonial taxation re-asserted by parliament, with the right "to bind the colonies in all cases whatsoever." In the repeal discussion Pitt declared: "You have no right to tax America. I rejoice that America has resisted. Three millions of our fellow-subjects so lost to every sense of virtue as tamely to give up their liberties would be fit instruments to make slaves of the rest." Colonial rejoicing over repeal: the leaders not deceived by its superficial character; the qualifying resolution led Samuel Adams to declare that "the conduct of England is permitted and ordained by the unsearchable wisdom of the Almighty for hastening the independence of these colonies."

1767. Colonial taxation renewed by duties on glass, whitelead, painters' colors, paper and tea, imported into the colonies. Renewal of discontent and agitation in America. Arbitrary government attempted in Massachusetts by the governor's dismissal of the assembly and his refusal to call another. Regulation of local affairs claimed in North Carolina, in a general convention —thence called Regulators.

1768. Liberty menaced in New York by the presence of British troops, and the suspension of the assembly for refusing to vote military supplies. Colonial liberty promoted by John Dickinson's "Letters of a Farmer," which were republished in England by Franklin, and translated into French and published in Paris. Non-importation societies re-organized. The people rife for riot and insurrection, but kept in check by the prudence of their leaders: "To insult and tear each other to pieces," said Otis, "was to act like madmen." "Our cause," said Dickinson, "is a cause of the highest dignity. . . . I hope it will not be disgraced in any colony by a single rash step." "The day dawns," wrote William Livingston, "in which the foundation of this mighty empire is to be laid by the establishment of a regular American constitution. . Before seven years roll over our own heads the first stone must be laid. . . No circumstance, whether prosperous or adverse, can happen to our parent; nay, no conduct of hers, whether wise or imprudent, no possible temper on her part, will put a stop to this building." "No assembly on the continent will ever concede that parliament has a right to tax the colonies," wrote Roger Sherman. "The right of unfettered discussion," said the same, "is inalienable, and we must maintain it." "We cannot believe," wrote William Williams, "that they will draw the sword in their own colonies; but if they do our blood is more at their service than our liberties." "You [the Massachusetts assembly] are right, and that is sufficient for me," wrote John Morin Scott, a Son of Liberty of New York. "We will fight the tory faction here, and the British regulars too, if necessary." "We must maintain," wrote Richard Stockton, "the natural and chartered rights of the colonists, but by peaceful and lawful means." "Let these truths be indelibly impressed on our minds," wrote the secret author of a handbill circulated in New York, "that we cannot be free without being secure in our property; that we cannot be secure in our property if, without our consent, others may as by right take it away; that taxes imposed by parliament do thus take it away; that duties laid for the sole purpose of raising money are taxes; that attempts to lay such should be instantly and firmly opposed." Commotion in Boston because of seizure without a warrant of the sloop Liberty for alleged violation of the revenue law, pronounced by royal governor to be "an insurrection rather than a riot." A general spirit of insurrection declared by royal officials to be prevailing throughout the province.

Colonial union promoted by circular of Massachusetts to the other colonial assemblies, by whom it was cordially adopted despite the vigorous opposition and threats of the royal governors. By parliament it was declared to be "a seditious paper," and the assembly was ordered to apologize for their "rash and hasty proceeding," which declining to do, they were dismissed. "Let Britons rescind their measures," said Otis, "or they are lost forever." By the royal minister, in his correspondence with the colonial governors, it was characterized as a document "of most dangerous and factious tendency." Liberty menaced in Massachusetts by encampment of loyal troops on Boston Common; refusal of colonial authorities to furnish military supplies. Popular liberty asserted in Massachusetts in a six days' convention, at Boston, of delegates from ninety-six towns, the governor having refused to summon the regular assembly. Circle of liberty completed by letter of North Carolina (Nov. 10), which was the last of the colonies to reply to the circular of Massachusetts.

1769. A purpose of independence and subversion of the constitution charged on Massachusetts by the king at the opening of parliament. The transportation of the Massachusetts leaders to England for trial suggested in parliament. Colonial union promoted by resolutions of Virginia's house of burgesses, claiming for that body "the sole right of imposing taxes," and "the lawfulness and expediency of procuring a concert of the colonies in case of the violated rights by America," of which a copy was sent "to every legislature in America," with request to concur.

Union of colonies in a general Congress, "which should exercise legislative power for them all," suggested by New York assembly, "without waiting for further aggressions." Colonial independence foreseen in England: "I now warn ministers," said Col. Barre in the House of Commons, "that, if they persist in their wretched course of oppression, the whole continent of North America will rise in arms, and these colonies perhaps be lost to England forever." Freedom of legislation menaced in the opinion of the Massachusetts assembly by the presence of armed troops in Boston, and they declined to discuss any subject but the redress of grievances. Toryism and toadyism of New York assembly censured by the people in mass meeting. The resolution declared by the assembly to be "an infamous and scandalous libel."

1770. Aversion to English rule deepened in New York by the cutting down by the soldiers of the people's emblem of freedom, the liberty pole. Hostility to royal government intensified in Massachusetts by the bloody altercation between soldiers and citizens, known as "the Boston massacre." Removal of royal troops from the city on demand of the people. Whig and Tory still more widely used to designate, respectively, those who favored the popular cause, or the pretensions of the crown. The right to tax the colonies re-asserted by parliament, by retaining the duty on tea, upon the repeal of the act of 1767. To this the colonies responded by continuing their non-importation societies as to tea. "The little conveniences and comforts of life," wrote the merchant, George Mason, "when set in competition with our liberty, ought to be rejected, not with reluctance but with pleasure." The spirit of liberty fostered in New York by the trial and imprisonment of Alex. McDougall, a Son of Liberty, charged with the authorship of obnoxious hand-bill, "To the Betrayed Inhabitants of the City and Colony of New York," which led to the mass meeting of citizens and their censure of the assembly. On being sentenced to imprisonment for contempt, he said, "I rejoice that I am the first to suffer for liberty since the commencement of our glorious struggle."

1771. Freedom of discussion honored by the attention paid to McDougall in prison, and by his release. Arbitrary government strengthened in North Carolina by defeat of the Regulators and the execution of six of their leaders.

1772. The struggle for liberty renewed in Massachusetts by an act of parliament requiring the payment of salaries of governor and judges from colonial funds without the consent of assembly, which declared the act to be subversive of their chartered rights and therefore void. Summary vindication of liberty by the people of Providence by capturing and burning the royal revenue schooner Gaspee. Co-operation of patriots promoted by formation of committees of correspondence throughout Massachusetts.

1773. Inter-colonial co-operation of patriots begun by Virginia assembly in appointing a committee of correspondence to represent the colony in communicating with the other colonies. Union against British aggression promoted by Sons of Liberty and Committees of Correspondence. Taxation without representation resisted in the anti-tea agitation: the sending of tea by Great Britain into the colonies declared, at a meeting of citizens of Philadelphia, to be "an attack on the liberties of America." Anti-tea hand-bill in Boston declared that "the hour of destruction, or manly opposition to the machinations of tyranny" had arrived, and it summoned the people, at the ringing of the bells, "to make united and successful resistance to this last, worst and most destructive measure of administration." Tea thrown overboard by the "Boston Tea Party" some days later. Tea sent back from Philadelphia and New York, on demand of the people.

1774. The act of defiance of the Boston Tea Party applauded throughout the colonies, but declared by the English government to be "open rebellion," which "must be punished." Local delegate convention of Boston and vicinity deliberated on methods of defense against oppression, urged stricter observance of non-importation compact, and sent a circular letter to other colonies. Repression of liberty in Massachusetts by acts of parliament—the Boston Port bill, forbidding commerce with that city; the bill for regulating the government of Massachusetts Bay, making the governor's council and the supreme court independent of the people, and forbidding town meetings without the consent of the governor; and the Murder bill, providing that officials charged with murder should be removed from the province for trial.

 In relation to these bills, Burke exclaimed in parliament—"What can Americans believe but that England wishes to despoil America of all liberty, of all franchise, and by the reduction of the charters to reduce them to a state of the most abject slavery;" and Pownall prophesied that these arbitrary measures would drive the Americans into calling a general congress and perhaps resorting to arms. If the Americans do not reject these bills, said another member, "they are the most abject slaves upon earth, and nothing the ministers can do is base enough for them," while still another added: "I am sorry to say that not only the House has fallen into this error, but the people approve of the measure. The people, I am sorry to say, have been misled. But a short time will prove the evil tendency of this bill. If there ever was a nation rushing headlong to ruin, it is this."

1774. New York assembly tainted with Toryism and not in sympathy with the tendency of the times toward revolution. Liberty sustained in Virginia. The House of Burgesses, being dissolved for non-compliance with the governor's wishes, constituted itself the Provincial Assembly of Virginia, and declared for a general congress as suggested by New York five years before. Free deliberation maintained in Massachusetts, whose assembly, dissolved by the governor, refused to separate before it had declared for a general congress.

Impending revolution: "They were rushing towards revolution," says Bancroft, "and they knew it not."

The Continental Congress met in Philadelphia, September 5, and organized by electing Peyton Randolph, of Virginia, as president. It comprised fifty-five delegates from twelve colonies, Georgia only not represented. This was virtually the birth of the republic, as the people thenceforth looked to that body as the guiding spirit of the colonies in their struggle with the British government. Congress indorsed non-importation, requesting colonial merchants "not to send any order to Great Britain, and to delay the execution of any order already sent;" they approved "the opposition of the inhabitants of Massachusetts Bay to the execution of the late acts of parliament; and if the same shall be attempted to be carried into execution by force, in such case all Americs ought to support them in their opposition;" they formulated a Declaration of Colonial Rights; and agreed upon fourteen articles of American Association, the second of which was: "We will neither import nor purchase any slave imported after the first day of December next." Jefferson had previously declared in the Virginia legislature, that the "abolition of domestic slavery is the greatest object of desire in these colonies where it was unhappily fixed in their infant state." They wrote an "Address to the People of Great Britain," a "Memorial to the Inhabitants of the several British-American Colonies," a "Petition to the King," and an "Address to the Inhabitants of the Province of Canada."

The ruling idea of congress and the people was to obtain for the several colonies the rights guaranteed by the British constitution as modified and enlarged by their charters and established political privileges without hostility to a constitutional monarchy or any deliberate purpose of separation from the mother country. "No such thing as independence," said Washington, in October, 1774, "is desired by any thinking man in America." By giving to each delegation only a single vote, this congress laid the foundation for future union on the basis of equality of colonies. Of their labor, Lord Chatham spoke thus in the House of Lords: "When your lordships look at the papers transmitted to us from America: when you consider their decency, firmness and wisdom, you cannot but respect their cause, and wish to make it your own. For myself, I must declare and avow, that in all my reading and observation—I have read Thucydides (and it has been my favorite study) and have studied and admired the master states of the world—that for solidity of reasoning, force of sagacity, and wisdom of conclusion, under such a complication of difficult circumstances, no nation or body of men can stand in preference to the general congress at Philadelphia." Henry Middleton, of South Carolina, chosen president. Adjournment of Congress, October 26, to meet May 10, 1775, unless redress should be granted.

Virtual revolution and abolition of royal authority in Massachusetts. The general court having been called by the governor, and the call rescinded because of anticipated insubordination, they constituted themselves a Provincial Congress of 260 members, which assumed executive and legislative powers, and actually represented the sovereignty of the people of Massachusetts, appointing a Committee of Safety to protect the interests of the people during adjournments. Preparations for war in Massachusetts by enrollment of 12,000 minute men—to take the field at a minute's notice—under authority of the Provincial Congress. Their acts denounced by the governor. Anticipation of war by the British government, which forbade importation of military stores into the colonies; seizure by the colonists of arms and ammunition.

1775. A provincial convention, followed by a provincial congress, in North Carolina, to replace the assembly dissolved by the governor for daring to approve the acts of the Continental Congress. Provincial conventions in Maryland and New Jersey, replacing assemblies. Obstruction of elections for delegates to Congress by royal governors under direction of British government. New York assembly declining to appoint delegates to Congress, they were appointed by a convention, and the assembly was replaced by a provincial congress, May 22, which was succeeded by the state legislature, three years later. First society for the abolition of slavery, in Philadelphia.

Liberty, Union and Independence Won by War. Period of Armed Struggle. Whigs and Tories. The Revolutionary Government. 1775-81.

1775. The Whig or Patriot Party, during the period between the battle of Lexington and the Declaration of Independence (April 19, 1775, to July 4, 1776), were willing to continue in the relation of colonists provided their rights as such were properly guaranteed by Great Britain.

The War of Independence precipitated by the Battle of Lexington, and the contingency of eventual separation from the mother country more widely entertained. "That there be any who pant after independence," wrote John Adams, earlier in the year, "is the greatest slander," and Jefferson afterwards wrote, "Before the 19th of April, 1775, I had never heard a whisper of a disposition to separate from Great Britain." It had been hoped that a "durable union between Britain and the Colonies" could be amicably established, but actual hostilities dispelled the illusion. A despotic king, who was incapable of entertaining even the conception of popular freedom, and a pliant ministry, whose subserviency to his arbitrary will was the surest guarantee of its continuance in power, were engaged in a continued and unscrupulous attempt to revolutionize the government of Great Britain, and were utterly impervious to all apprehension of danger from the conflict they were determined to force upon the colonies in vindication of the alleged rights of the crown.

The Second Continental Congress met at Philadelphia, May 10, comprising delegates from twelve colonies, Georgia remaining unrepresented until July. Peyton Randolph, of Virginia, elected president. Without a formal renunciation of allegiance they proceeded to assume several of the functions of a general government, sent a second petition to the king which may be regarded as the last official expression of loyalty to the crown. John Hancock, of Massachusetts, elected president, May, 24, to succeed Peyton Randolph who had resigned to take his seat in the Virginia House of Burgesses. Declaration of independence by settlers of Mecklenburg county, North Carolina. Election of George Washington as commander-in-chief of the continental army by Congress. A Tory newspaper office—New York Gazetteer—destroyed by patriots of New Haven. Assumption of national powers by Congress, in voting bills of credit.

A form of Confederation sketched by Franklin on the basis of his "Plan of Union," of 1754, but with less recognition of the royal claims, and designed to be perpetual in case reconciliation with the crown should prove a vain hope, failed to receive the attention of Congress, which was still unwilling to take so decisive a step, hoping to receive a favorable reply to their humble petition; and was repudiated by others because it gave too great powers to Congress. "The idea of destroying all provincial distinctions," said Rutledge, of South Carolina, "and making everything of the most minute kind bend to what they call the good of the whole, is, in other terms, to say that these colonies must be subject to the government of the eastern provinces.... I am resolved to vest the Congress with no more power than what is absolutely necessary, and to keep the staff in our own hands; for I am confident, if surrendered into the hands of others, a most pernicious use will be made of it." Virtual sovereignty asserted by the expulsion of Dr. Benjamin Church from Congress, for disloyalty. Prospect of independence not less favorable because of the military operations of the year.

1776. Union Typified in the hoisting of the first American flag over the camp at Boston. Liberty, union and independence promoted by Paine's "Common Sense." Separation from Massachusetts, and establishment of a temporary state government by New Hampshire. Patriots encouraged by the triumph of their arms in compelling the evacuation of Boston. A state constitution adopted by South Carolina. Independence proclaimed by Rhode Island. To work for colonial independence urged on the delegates of Virginia in Congress, by the House of Burgesses. Negotiations for aid from France begun. Recommendation of Congress to the colonial assemblies that they severally "adopt such governments as shall best conduce to the happiness and safety of their constituents in particular, and America in general." Connecticut and Rhode Island content with the governments they had formed under their charters, did not frame new constitutions until 1818 and 1842, respectively. British authority in the colonies abrogated by Congress, and British property declared a lawful prize. Independence formally enunciated in Congress by Lee's Resolutions, June 7; and committee to draft a declaration of independence appointed, June 8, also a committee on foreign relations and a board of war. Declaration of rights adopted by Virginia convention. Lee's Resolutions passed by twelve colonies, July 2, New York's delegates not voting in the absence of instructions.

Declaration of Independence adopted by Congress, July 4. Birth of the Nation. A committee appointed to devise a seal for the United States of America, though no design was actually adopted until June 20, 1782. The royal statue in New York transformed into bullets. Declaration of Independence signed August 2, by fifty-four delegates of thirteen colonies, two being absent. "We must be unanimous," said President Hancock, "there must be no pulling different ways; we must all hang together." "Yes," said Franklin, "we must all hang together, or we shall all hang separately."

Sovereignty exercised by Congress in passing a pension act, and a homestead act in favor of those who should serve in the army to the close of the war. Sovereignty asserted by refusing to confer with British commissioners except on the basis of recognition of Independence. Adoption of state constitutions by New Jersey (July 2), Virginia (July 5), Pennsylvania (July 15), Maryland (Aug. 14), Delaware (Sept. 20), North Carolina (Dec. 18); and New York declared her independence of Great Britain. Proclamation of pardon by British commander to all who would lay down their arms. Rhode Island occupied by British troops. Congress removed to Baltimore, Dec. 20, to escape capture by the British. Patriots encouraged by an important victory at Trenton. Negotiations for aid from France resumed under leadership of Franklin. Slaveholding declared incompatible with membership by the Society of Friends. Military operations of the year not encouraging.

1777. Patriots encouraged by Washington's success in New Jersey. Independence of Vermont, with abolition of slavery, declared. State constitutions adopted by Georgia and New York. Financial aid from France, without recognition of independence. Return of Congress to Philadelphia, March 4. Exchange of prisoners refused by Washington because of the inhuman treatment of Americans in British prison-ships. United States flag adopted by Congress. First anniversary of Independence celebrated. Congress removed to Lancaster Sept. 27, and thence to York, Pa., Sept. 30. Philadelphia taken by British. The patriot cause strengthened by surrender of Gen. Burgoyne. Board of war created to replace committee of Congress.

Union and Independence promoted by the adoption by Congress of the "Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union." Henry Laurens, of South Carolina, elected president, succeeding Hancock, who left that body to fight for his country as first major-general of Massachusetts militia. Military operations of the year indecisive.

1778. Independence of the United States recognized by France in a treaty of alliance and commerce. Plan of reconciliation by Lord North, based upon the old relations between the crown and the colonies, though adopted by parliament, failed to affect the United States, which had meanwhile passed far beyond that phase of political evolution. The patriot cause advanced by the evacuation of Philadelphia; and by the arrival of a French fleet and a French minister to the United States, as well as by the reception at the French court of the embassy from the United States. Increase of the United States territory by the conquest of the Northwest by Virginia troops under Col. George Rogers Clark. Congress returned to Philadelphia, July 2.

Permanent union certain through the adoption of the Articles of Confederation by eight states before July 9, and three others before the close of the year. In framing that instrument an overwrought idea of liberty and local independence operated on the minds of many of the patriotic delegates against granting to the central government the necessary powers, entailing dangerous weakness and even the risk of ultimate failure. Even the name of United States was tainted in the minds of some by a suspicion of centralization, and Confederated States was preferred as savoring less of consolidated power, so jealous were they of authority and so impressed with the difficulty of exercising great powers without abuse.

The Whig, Patriot or Revolutionary party, divided in Congress, in the State legislatures and among the people at large into two sections, which might be designated as State-rights Whigs and Strong-government Whigs, both being in accord as to the prosecution of the war and separation from Great Britain, but differing as to the powers to be entrusted to the central or union government. The form adopted was a genuine political victory to the former, who were in a majority and in the main had control of the government, although several of the most active civil and military leaders in the Revolution were of the opposite section. "The States separately," said Washington, "are too much engaged in their local concerns. If the great whole is mismanaged, the States individually must sink into the general wreck." John Jay, of New York, elected president of Congress. Military operations of the year indecisive.

1779. The patriot cause strengthened by the naval victory of Paul Jones. Financial credit of the United States very low, its bills being worth in gold only about three per cent. of their face value. An American minister to Spain commissioned. Samuel Huntington, of Connecticut, chosen president. A Board of Admiralty replaced naval committee of Congress. Military operations restricted by the diminished numbers of the American troops.

1780. Demand by Congress on the States to enlarge the army to 35,000 men. Gradual abolition of slavery enacted by Pennsylvania. French aid of 6,000 troops received by the United States. A state constitution adopted by Massachusetts. Negotiations with Holland begun by United States. Depreciation of the currency to about two and one-half per cent.

1781. Suffering, destitution and discontent of the army, with mutiny of some troops, because of arrears of pay and lack of proper supplies.

National union made permanent by the adoption by Maryland (last of the thirteen to accept,) of the Articles of Confederation, March 1. Congress adjourned.

Congress reassembled under the Articles of Confederation March 2, Thomas McKean, of Delaware, chosen president, July 10. John Hanson, of Maryland, chosen president, November 5.

The Tory, Royalist or Loyalist party were willing that the colonies should remain subject to Great Britain, without any guarantee of chartered or otherwise established rights and usages. They constituted the opposition to the Whigs, Patriots or Revolutionists during the unarmed struggle of 1765 to 1775, in the controversy with the mother country. After the war began they gave aid and comfort to the enemy by enlistments (to the number of perhaps 25,000, from first to last,) and otherwise. There were many more, who for various causes were non-combatants, but no less virulent in their denunciations of the "rebels," on that account. After the Declaration of Independence, their positions became more critical, as by that instrument they were made disloyalists to the new government and to their respective States, all of which assumed sovereignty and could not be indifferent to these internal enemies. With the sanction of Congress, penalties of confiscation.

imprieonment, banisbment and minor restrictione were imposed by tbe several legislatures. But, as e rule after the voluntary expatriation of tbe more violent and obnoxious of them, tbe patriote were contenu with keeping a close watcb on their movements, to prevent as far ae possible their being of esrvics to tbs public enemy, to the undisguised obagrin of tbs mors ardent Whigs, whose feelings wers voiced by the vigorous outburst of Joseph Hawley: "Can ws subsist—did any stats ever subeist—without exterminating traitore? It is amazingly wonderful that, having no capital puniehment for our intestine enemies, we have not beeu utterly ruined before now."

1775. Tories under Gov. Dunmore defeated in Virginia.
1776. Tories disarmed by order of Congress "as unworthy Americans who take the part of the oppressors." Tories defeated and royal authority overthrown in North Carolina. Flight of 1,100 Tories to Halifax, on the evacuation of Boston. Expulsion of a typical Tory parson from York, Pa., for persisting in public prayer for the king.
1778. Toryism made more odious by its massacres in Wyoming and Cbe. ry valleys.
1779. Toryism and royalty made yet more odious by the injuries inflicted on American seaboard cities hy the British fleet.
1780. Tories and their British allies defeated, and ten of the most virulent and cruel of the Tory leaders hung, in South Carolina, by patriot volunteers.
1781. Tory hopes blasted by the surrender of Cornwallis, and themselves left to the mercy of their late opponents, except that a few of the most obnoxious were suffered to escape the vengeance of the patriots in a despatch vessel.

When the British troope finelly quit the ehores of the United States, many Tories removed acrosethe border into Canada and New Brunswick. After some years tbe Britieh parhament voted them an indemnity of $15,500,000, and several received "annuities, half-pay es military officers, largs grants of lands, and ehared with otber eubjecte in the patronage of the crown." Some of the lese prominent remained in tbe Uuited Statcs aud wore soon lost eight of among the loyel massee.

Liberty, Union and Independence assured in Peace. Divergence of Political Views among the Patriots. The Confederation Government, 1781-89.

1781. A French Fleet in aid of the United States drove tbe Britieh from Chesapeake Bay. Virtual cloee of tbe war by the surrender of Coruwallis, Oct. 19.

1782. Independence of the United States recognized by Holland. Suggestion of kingship eparued by Washington. "My eyss bave grown dim," said be, "in ths servics of my country; but I haws never doubted ner justice." An emblem of National sovereignty adopted by Congress in tbs great eeal of the United Stalee end its motto E pluribus Unum. The king authorized by parliament, in May, to make peace. Eline Bondinot, of New Jersey, made president of Congress, Nov. 4. Preliminary treaty of peace with Great Britain, Nov. 30.

1783. Independence of the United States recognized by Sweden, Deumark, Spain and Russia, successively. Cessatiou of hostilities proclaimed by Washington. Independence of the United States established by a definite treaty of peace with Great Britain, Sept. 3. Evacuation of New York, tbeir last foothold, by the Britisb. Final emigration of Toriee. Surrender of his commiesion by Waehington. A Stats constitutiou, with abolition of slavery, adopted by New Hampshire, to take effect in June, 1784.

The later presidents of Congress, and temporary capitals. Thomas Mifflin, chosen president of Congress, Nov. 3, was succeeded by Richard Henry Lee, Nov. 30, 1784; Nathaniel Graham, June 6, 1786; Arthur St. Clair, Feb. 2, 1787; and Cyrus Griffin, Jan. 22, 1788. Congress removed to Princeton, June 30, and to Annapolis, Nov. 26, 1783; to Trenton, Nov 1, 1784; to New York, Jan. 11, 1785, which was the capital of the United States until 1790, wbere it remained until the establishment of the permanent capital at Washington in 1800.

State-rights Whigs, as they were named a few yeare later,—State sovereignty, or State-supremacy Whigs, they might perhape more appropriately bave been called—may be eaid to bave had coutrol of the governmeut under the Articlee of Confederation, though, party lines not being strictly drawn, men of coutrary opiniou were not excluded from place or power. The central government, as previously stated, was regarded by tbem as a delegated autbority, witb the chief elements of sovereignty reserved to each State, on which account the members of tbe party were sometimee called particulariets. Favorable to tbe individual Statee as was tbis form of government, they had hesitated "to conclude the compact, which was to unite the strength, wealth and couucils of the whole." That their viewe were purely patriotic there is no reason to doubt, and that they eprang from a jealous vigilauce to preeerve tbeir dearly bought liberties and not from any wisb to needlessly enfeeble the central authority, is evidenced by ths fact that they restricted with a like rigidity the powere of tbe State executives. Ae wae observed by a French contemporary, "the mere name of authority inspired terror." They beld tbat the largest measure of local self-government was the best safsguard against oppression. The several States had established tbeir governments, exercising all the essential rights of real eovereignty, and it was no easy task to induce them to surrendor any large measure of those powers to eonetitute a strong central authority which all the hitter experiencee of tbe past had tanght them to regard as possessed of aherent tendenciee dangerous to liberty. The Continental Congress itself was nothing else than an eesemblage of delegates commissioned by the several colonial assemblies and afterwards by the State legislatures, without even a semblance of direct popular or national representation. Tbeir conception of tbe government was of a loose confederation of tbe States with a cerefully restricted central delegated authority for the more convenient discbarge of foreign relations and some general purposes affecting the interual relations of tbe States, but witbout possessing any of the essential attributes of sovereignty, properly so called. When, in 1783, Gen. Greene was soliciting relief for his balf-fed soldiers from ths legislature of Soutb Carolina, a member exclaimed: "A Cromwell was dictating to free men, tbreatening them with a mutinied army; trying to huild up Congree on the ruins of state rigbte."

The divergence of political views between the twosectione of American patriots, ths State-righte, and tbs strong-government Whigs (see below) became more decided on the establishment of peace with England, and the recognition of the independence of ths United States hy the leading nations of the world. The period from 1784 to 1787 wae much occupied in tbe discussion of their opposing theoriee, with an mcreesing preponderance of opinion in favor of a stronger government than was supplied by ths Articlee of Confederation. Thsre was thus gradually developed a desire for a constitutional convention to reconsider and amend the existing form of government.

The first definite conception end proposal of a constitutional convention dates back a few yeare. July 19, 1782, on motion of General Scbuyler, (at the suggestion of his eon-in-law, Alexander Hamilton) in the New York legislaturs, it was resolved: "That the foregoing important end [the collection of the taxes dus the general government, by its own officers] can never be attained by partial deliberations of ths States separately; hut tbat it ie esseutial to the common welfare that there should be, as soon as possible, a conference of the whole on the subject; and tbat it would he edviseble, for tbis purpose, to propose to Congress to recommend, and to each State to adopt, the mauner of assembling a general convention of the Statee, specially authorized to revise and amend the Confederation, reserving a right to the respective legislatures to ratify tbeir determiuatioue." But the project lay in abeyance several years.

"A new system of government whicb should act, not on the States, but directly on individuals, and vest in Congrese full powers to carry its lawe into effect," wae euggested by Noah Webster in a pamphlet issued 1784.

In 1785, commissioners appointed by Maryland and Virginia to form some equitable agreement for the peaceable navigation of the waters common to both States, found themselves unable to establisb a satisfactory settlement, whereupon tbs legislature of Virginia invited the other States to send delegatesto Annapohs, Md., the eneuing yeer, to determine how existing defects in the government in regard to inter-state commercial relations could best be remgedied. In 1785 Washington deplored that through the "illiberality, jealousy end local policy of tbe States," tbe Confederation was sinking, "in tbe eyes of Europe, into contempt."

In September, 1786, the delegates of Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jereey and New York assembled at Annapolis to deliberate on the subject indicated. The result of their deliberations was that they advised Congress to call a convention to revise the Articles of Confederation.

The permanency of the Confederation wae meauwhile seriouely menaced. A project of separation into three confedsracies was entertained by some. Insurgents in western North Carolina formed the sbort-lived State of Frankland. Tbere wae an insurrection against Pennsylvania in the Wyoming valley. Tbe territory of Maine projected a revolt from Massachusetts and the formation of a State. At Exeter, New Hampshire, a moh demanded of tbe legislature the issuo of paper money and a remission of taxes. In December, what has become known as Shaye' Rebellion broke out in Massachusetts. It was due to the general poverty and distress arising from tbe heavy taxes occasioued by the late war, and was precipitated by the attempt to legally collect those debts by forced ealee, in consequence of whicb many worthy people were threatened with the loss of their homesteads. Taxation wae growled at, or resisted in other parts of the country. Debt weigbed heavily on all classes. Among other results of this widespread distress and discontent was tbe direction of tbe thoughts of many to tbs lack of adequete powers in the Confederation to provids for the peyment of the wer debt or secure the public peace.

In February, 1787, Congress passed a resolution calling on the States to send delegates to a general convention for "the sole and express purpose of revising the Articlee of Confederation, and reporting to Congress and the several legislatures such alterations and provisions therein ae should, wben agreed to in Congress and confirmed by the Statee, render the Federal Constitution adequate to ths exigencies of tbe governmeut au l the preservetion of the Union."

Strong Government or Federal Sovereignty Whigs is an appropriate designation of the opponents of the State-rights Whige. In the first year of the Confederation government they were in a decided minority, hut es tbs weakneee of tbat form became more manifest, the party grew in numbers, or, rather (as there was no party organization on either eide), the number of those who entertained the views indicated by that neme, wae largely increased. They were dissatisfied with tbs limited powers entrusted to Congress, and the consequent inefficiency of its executive meesures, justly complaining of a conetitution of government that made tbe central euthority weak at boms and despised abroad. "Tbere ought to be a principle," said Hamilton, "capable of resisting tbe popular current." ----It "ie this, that tners must bs a permanent will." They wish to endow tbe central government, throughb tbe voluntary concessions of the States, with the attributes of sovereignty in the exercise of the functione witb whicb it was charged for the welfare of the whols people. "A thirst for power," wrote Washington, "and the bantling (I liked to have said ths monster) sovereignty, which bas taken such fast hold of the States individually, will, when joined hy the many whose personal consequencs in the lins of State politics will in a measure bs annihileted, form a strong phalanx against it."

These were perhaps extreme views, hut all Strong-government Whigs desired a complete revision of ths Articles of Confederation, regarding them as utterly inadequate to tbs purposee for which they were edopted. They claimed tbat the permanence of free institntions wae dependent on an extension of tbe powers of the central government, and that without euch enlargement it would bs impossible to preserve the union of tbe Statee, command the respect of foreign natione, or form with these equal commercial treaties. "We are ons nation to-day," said Washington, "and thirteen to-morrow. Who will treat with ue on these terms?" "If tbe American Statee," eug-gested an Englisb writer, "choose to send consuls, receivs them, aud eend a consul to each Stats. Each State will soon enter into all necessary regulations with the consul, and tbie is the whols that is necessary."

"The United States in Congress," said a native critic of the Articles of Confederation, "have exclusive power for the following purposes without being able to execute one of them:
"1. They make and conclnde treaties, but can only recommend the observance of them.
"2. They may appoint amhassadors, but cannot defray even the expenses of their tables.
"3. They may borrow in their own name on the faith of the Union, but cannot pay a dollar.
"4. They may coin money, but they cannot purchase an ounce of bullion.
"5. They may make war and determine what number of troops are necessary, but cannot raise a single soldier.
"6. In short, they may declare everything, but can do nothing."

The Formation and Adoption of the Constitution, 1787--89. Federalists and Anti-Federalists.

The Federal Convention, now more generally known, from the reeult of ite labors, as the Conetitutional Convention, met in Philadelphia, in May, 1787, in response to tbe call of Congress tbree months before, every Stats except Rhods Island being represented. It was organized by the election of Washington ae presiding officer, and its deliberations extended from May 25 to September 17.

In ths first formal speech, by Edmund Randolpb, it was suggested that "a national government ought to bs established, conesting of a eupreme legislature, executive and judiciary." Originally convened to reviss tbe Articles of Confederation, they found so much to change thet tbey concluded to form a new Constitution. As the result of their labors, by a provision of the original call, was to be submitted to conventions of tbe several States for adoption, they felt at liberty to meke that departure from the first design, and signalized it hy tbs well-known preamble to the Constitution: "We, ths people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, estebliah justice, insurs domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfere, and secure tbe blessings of liberty to ourselvee and our posterity, do ordain and establisb this Constitution for the United States of North America." The instrnment thus announced, end by one of its provisione requiring for its retification only ths adoption by nine States, founded a free representative democracy, based on universal suffrage, "a government of the people, by tbe people, and for tbe people," with the powere of government divided into thres independent divisions: tbe legislature or Congress, the executive or President, and the judiciary or Supreme Court, witb freedom of religion, of epeecn and of the press. trial by jury, the right of every citizen to petition, and to bear arms, and many otber important provisions "to secure the blessings of liberty."

The Constitution was signed by thirty-nine of the fifty-five delegates composing the Convention, but of the other eixteen some were absent and only tbree of those present refused to sign. The State-rights Whige, or Confederationists, and Strong-government Whigs, or Nationalists, (tbese in greater number as being the promoters of the desired change) went into Convention with little prospect of agreement. But as all were anxious to better tbe existing form, moderate men of both parties, with the aid of a middle class who were not specially committed to either, were enabled by compromises and concessions to harmonize the jarring elements and effect the desired end, a union or federation of tbe States, possessed in its own right of independent and dominant sovereign powers, hut without prejndice to the locsl domination or sovereignty of the States within their respective horders.

The Northwest Territory. During the session of ths Convention an act, only less momentous than the Constitution in its influence on liherty, was passed hy Congress nuder this title: "An ordinance for the government of the territory of the United States northwest of the Ohio," in which, among other valuable provisions, it was ordained that "There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in ths ssid territory, otherwise than in ths punishment of crimes, whereof the party shall have been duly convictsd."

The Draft of the Constitution was sent forward to Congress, which on Septemher 28, 1787, "Resolvsd, That ths ssid rsport [the Constitution], with ths rssolution and lstter accompanying ths same, he transmitted to ths several legislatures, in order to he submitted to a convention of delegates chosen in each State by the people thereof, in conformity to the resolvss of the Convention made and provided in that case."

The division of parties now hecame more decided and new names began to prevail, based on their relations to the new Constitutiou. During ths dehates in the Federal Convention and in the several State conventions which were called for its adoption, those who favored it wers called Federalists, while those who opposed were from that circumstance known as Anti-federalists, successors, respectively, of ths Strong-government and State-rights Whigs already described.

The new government assured. The Constitution (Art. VII.) provided that, "The ratification hy nine States shall bs sufficient for the estshlishment of this Constitution hetween ths Statss so ratifying ths same." It was ratified by the States, as follows: Dslaware, December 7, Pennsylvania, Decemher 12, New Jersey, December 18, of that ysar; Georgia. January 2, Connecticut, January 9, Massachusetts, February 6, Maryland, April 28, South Carolina, May 23, New Hampshirs (the ninth State), June 21, Virginia, June 26, New York, July 26, 1788, North Carolina, Novembsr 25, 1789, and Rhode Island, May 29, 1790.

September 18, 1788, Congrsss appointed the first Wednesday in Jannary, 1789, for ths choosing of prssidential slectors, the first Wednesday in Februsry for casting ths hallots for prssidsnt and vice-president, and the first Wednesday in March "for commencing proceedings under the Constitution," hut owing to delays in coming together, the first Congrss did not have a qnornm until April 6, and the president was not inaugurated until April 30, 1789.

POLITICAL PARTIES FROM 1789 TO THE PRESENT TIME.

1789 to 1793—George Washington, President.

States voting, 10; their electoral vote, 73; not cast, 4.

FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 56. — The sixty-nine electoral votes of both parties were cast for Washington as the first choice of all for President. "In you," said ths Senate in reply to his inaugural, "all parties confide." He was politicslly in accord with the Federalists, hut his personal fitness and his great servicss mads him the universal choice. He reciprocated the confidence of his political opponents hy selecting his cabinet partly from among them and by a stndisd and sincere impartiality. Party lines are, however, clearly recognizahls in the choice of vice-prssident. John Adams, fully identified with the Federalist party, not only received thirty-four votes, the greatest nnmher cast for any ons candidate for that offics, but of the remaining thirty-five, twenty-two wsre cast for other Federalists, leaving only thirteen electorsl votes to rsprssent the strength of the Anti-fedsralist party.

This Fsderalist victory was in fact hut the continuancs of that slrsady won in the Constitutionsl Convention and the ten Stats conventions which had adopted the new form of government. They alone could hs entrusted with carrying it into effect, while their opponents might he trusted to keep a watchful eye on their avowed purpose to enlarge its scope. In their leading measures the Fedsralists svinced a decided tendency to increase the functions and powers of the general government, as well hy new statutes to that end, as hy such interpretation of the Constitution—its implied and constructive grants of central suthority—as favored their views. Hence they and their successors in that line of thought are known as Loose, or Broad Constructionists.

Ths Federalists denied ths adaptahility of "ths masses" for self-government, and regarded them as inclined to oppose ths rights of property ss well as ths pretensions of a superior or rnling class, to which ths Fedsrslists considered themselves as belonging. The party comprised prosperous merchants, capitalists, large land-owners, theorists and thinkers who imagined the British government to he so nearly perfect that they were more desirons of imitating than improving it, and those distinguished for inherited prestige and social standing. They lacked faith in the people.

ANTI-FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 13. — No opposing candidate for the presidency.

The Anti-federalist was a short-lived party. They were known as Particnlarists and State-rights Whigs until the meeting of the Constitutional Convention, May 14, 1787, hut upon the acceptance of the Constitution hy Rhode Island, May 29, 1790, that designation was no longer applicahle. Indeed it was never appropriate, and had always heen protested against. They did not oppose a league or union, nor the Constitntion, hut only the Federalist views of these. There were no tner patriots than their leaders. But the objectionable epithet continned to be applied until they adopted the more significant nams of Repnblicans.

1793 to 1797—GEORGE WASHINGTON, President—Second Term.

States voting, 15; total electoral vote, 135; not cast, 3.

FEDERALIST; Elcctoral vote, 77. — Several of the more prominent leaders of the Fedsrslist party regarded the Constitution merely as the best that could then he "extorted from the grinding necessity of a reluctant nation." "The Federal government," said Hamilton, "may then triumph over the State governments, and reduce them to entire snhordination, dividing the larger States into smaller districts," and he "ahle to protect the men of propsrty from the depredations which the democratic spirit is apt to make on property." In 1792 he characterized the Constitution as "a shilly-shally thing of mere milk and water, and only good as a step to something better;" and in 1802 he was "still lahoring to prop ths frail and worthless fabric." "State attachments and State importancs," said Gouverneur Morris, "have been the hane of this country. We cannot snnihilate them, hnt we may perhaps tske out the teeth of the serpents."

Party lines were distinctly drawn hetwesn them and their opponents, the Repnblicans, whom they called Democratic Repnhlicans, and the French party, hecauss of the odium then sttaching to the word democrat by resson of the excesss of ths Jacobins, or radical democrats of the French Revolution. Ths Federalists, on the other hand, wers characterized hy their opponents, with equal freedom, as Aristocratic and Monarchical Repnhlicans, and ths British party.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 55. — No opposing candidate for the presidency.

The Republican party of 1792 may he said to consist of snch persons as, thongh adhering to ths strict construction views of ths late Anti-tsderalists and the State-rights views of thess and their prsdecessors, the Particnlarists, had determined to give ths Constitntion a fair trial and dne obedience, while resisting the "implisd and constructivs" theory of the Fedsralists. "I own," said Jefferson, the leader and foundsr of ths party, "that I am not a friend to a very energetic government: it is slways oppressive."

Among the lsading principles of the party were ths sovsreignty, if not the supremacy of the Statss, without prejudice however to the limited sovereignty of ths Federal government in its own sphere; the value of locsl self-government as a safeguard of free institntions as wsll as an economy in internal administration. Their aim was to foster simple and inexpensive, rather than showy and complicated forms of administration. They claimed that thus had independence heen won, and that thus it could he hest maintained, and prosperity and happiness bs more widely distrihuted among a self-governing people.

1797 to 1801—JOHN ADAMS, President.

States voting, 16; total electoral vote, 138.

FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 71. — The leaning of the party to strong government views and its partiality to the British in the European conflicts of the period culminated in the introduction and enactment through its influence, of the Alien and Sedition laws of 1798. One required fourteen years' residence hefore naturalization; a second authorized the president to "order any alien whom he should jndge to be dangerons to the peace and liherties of America to depart from the United States;" a third provided that, npon declaration of war against, or invasion of the United States, all former snhjects of the hostile power might be arrested, secured or removed at the discretion of the president, requiring only the formality of a proclamstion. Though worded with careful comprehensiveness, these Alien laws were chiefly directed against the French, hecause of their ultra-democracy, and British refugees in America. The Sedition Act made it a misdemeanor, pnnishable hy a fine not to exceed $5,000, and imprisonment not to exceed five years, to combine against government measures or officials; and subjecting to fine and imprisonment any one who should print or pnhlish "any falss, scandalous and malicious writings against the government of the United States, or either House of Congress, or the President, with intent to defame them, or to hring them into contempt or disrepute." These measures justified the charges of their opponents nnd lost the party the confidence of the people.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 68. — Thomas Jefferson, candidate for the presidency.

The currsnt views of the party are fairly indicated hy the following extracts, of two years' later date:

From the Kentucky Resolutions of 1798: "That the principle and construction contended for by sundry of the State legislatures, that the General government is the exclusive jndge of the extent of the powers delegated to it, stop not short of despotism—since the discretion of those who administer government and not the Constitution, would be the measure of their powers. That the several States who formed that instrument, being sovereign and independent, have the nnquestionable right to judge of the infraction; and that a nullification by those sovereignties of all nnauthorized acts done under cover of that instrument, is the rightful remedy; that this Commonwealth does under the most deliberate reconsideration declare that the said Alien and Sedition Laws are, in their opinion, palpable violations of the said Constitution."

From Virginia Resolutions of 1798: "This Assembly doth especially and peremptorily declare th t it views the powers of the Federal government, as limited by the plain sense and intention of the instrument constituting that compact, as no further valid than they are authorized by the grants enumerated in that compact; and that in case of a deliberate, palpable and dangerous exercise of other powers, not granted by said compact, the States who are parties thereto have the right and are in duty bonnd to interpose for arresting the progress of the evil and for maintaining, within their respective limits, the authorities, rights and liberties appertaining to them.

"The General Assembly doth also express its deep regret, that a spirit has, in sundry instances, been manifested by the Federal government to enlarge its powers by forced constructions of the constitntional charter which defines them ... so as to consolidate the States by degrees into one sovereignty, the obvious tendency and inevitable result of which would be to transform the present republican system of the United States into an absolute, or at best a mixed monarchy.

"The General Assemoly doth particularly protest against the palpable and alarming infractions of the Constitution in the two late cases of the Alien and Sedition Acts."

1801 to 1805—Thomas Jefferson, President.

States voting, 16; total electoral vote, 138.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 73. — Platform of 1800 abridged: 1. "Inviolahle preservation of the Federal constitution, according to ths true sense in which it was adopted by the States. 2. Opposition to monarchizing its features. 3. Preservation to the States of ths powers not yielded hy them to the Union. 4. A rigorously frugal administrstion of the government.... snd resistance to all measures looking to a multiplication of officers snd salaries. 5. Rehance for internal defense solely upon the militia, till actual invasion.... and opposition to the policy of a standing army in time of peace. 6. Free commerce with all nations, political connection with none, nnd little or no diplomatic establishment. 7. Opposition to linking ourselves hy new trsaties with the quarrels of Europe. 8. Freedom of religion. 9. Freedom of speech and of the press. 10. Liberal naturalization laws. 11. Enconragement of science and the arts to the end that the American peo le may perfect their independence of all foreign monopolies, institutions and influences."

From Jefferson's inaugural, 1801: "I will compress them ['The essential principles of our government,'] within the narrowest compass they will hear:"

"Equal and exact justice to all men, of whatever State or persuasion, religious or political; peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none; the snpport of the State governments in all their rights as the most competent administrations for our domestic concerns and the snrest bnlwark against anti-republican tendencies; the preservation of the general government, in its whole constitutional vigor, as the sheet-anchor of our peace at home and safety abroad; a jealous care of the right of election by the people—(Continued under Jefferson's second term.)

FEDERALIST; Elcctoral vote, 65. — John Adams, candidate. President Adams was held responsible hy many prominent Federalists for the injnry done to the party hy the Alien and Sedition laws, and his known desire for re-election alienated others who felt that part success was jeopardized by his candidacy. Against the Sedition Act especially, Hsmilton, the most popular of the party's leaders, had vainly remonstrsted. "Let us" said he, "not estabiish a tyranny. Energy is a very different thing from violsnce. If we take no falss step, we shall he essentially united; but if we pnsh things to the extreme, we shall then give to parties hody and sohdity." Hamilton had long heen estranged from Adams; and the latter was regarded hy many as an unwise party leader, because of personal peculiarities as well as public measures.

The party was defeated by 65 to 73 electoral votes, and never recovered political ascendency; but it had done good work and deserved well of the country. It had solidified the Union by the Federal Constitution, a work which otherwise might not have been achieved but by a slow political evolution. It had funded the public debt and established the finances of the new nation on a creditable basis; had put into practical operation the complex machinery of the new government, and had added the first ten Amendments to the Constitution, having shown an unusual degree of political courage in accepting them from the opposition.

1805 to 1809—THOMAS JEFFERSON, President—Second Term.

States voting, 17; total electoral vote, 176.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 162. { (Continued from Jefferson's first term),— "a mild and safe correction of abuses which are lopped by the sword of revolution where peaceable remedies are unprovided; absolute acquiescence in the decisions of the majority—the vital principle of republics, from which there is no appeal but to force, the vital principle and immediate parent of despotism; a well disciplined militia—our best reliance in peace, and for the first moments of war, till regulars may relieve them; the supremacy of the civil over the military authority; economy in the public expense, that labor may be lightly burdened; the honest payment of our debts and sacred preservation of the public faith; encouragement of agriculture, and of commerce as its handmaid; the diffusion of information and the arraignment of all abuses at the bar of public reason; freedom of religion; freedom of the press; freedom of persons under the protection of the habeas corpus; and trial by juries impartially selected—these principles form the bright constellation which has gone before us and guided our steps through an age of revolution and reformation. The wisdom of our sages and the blood of our heroes have been devoted to their attainment. They should be the creed of our political faith—the text of civil instruction—the touchstone by which to try the services of those we trust; and should we wander from them in moments of error or alarm, let us hasten to retrace our steps, and to regain the road which alone leads to peace, liberty and safety."

From Jefferson's Letters, in 1801, in relation to removals from office: .... "I lament sincerely that unessential differences of opinion should ever have been deemed sufficient to interdict half the society from the rights and the blessings of self-government, to proscribe them as unworthy of every trust. It would have been to me a circumstance of great relief, had I found a moderate participation of office in the hands of the majority. I would gladly have left to time and accident to raise them to their just share. But their total exclusion calls for prompter correction. I shall correct this procedure, but, that done, return with joy to that state of things when the only question concerning a candidate shall be: Is he honest? Is he capable? Is he faithful to the Constitution?"

"Some removals I know must be made. They must be as few as possible, done gradually, and bottomed on some malversation or inherent disqualification" .... "officers who have been guilty of gross abuses of office, such as marshals packing juries, &c., I shall now remove, as my predecessor ought in justice to have done. The instances will be few, and governed by strict rule, not party passion. The right of opinion shall suffer no invasion from me." .... "The measures we shall pursue and propose for the amelioration of the public affairs will be so confessedly salutary as to unite all men not monarchists in principle."

FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 14. { Charles C. Pinckney, candidate. Through dissensions among the leaders, as well as by reason of the great political sagacity of Jefferson, who has perhaps never been surpassed as a party leader, the Federalists had sunk into a hopeless minority.

1809 to 1813—JAMES MADISON, President.

States voting, 17; total electoral vote, 176; not cast, 1.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 123. { The party continued in the line marked out by the genius of Jefferson, and no one was more willing to accept his guidance than the new president. The government had been administered for eight years under Republican principles to the general satisfaction of the people, and there were no grounds for a marked change of policy. The disturbed relations with England remained unimproved, but Jefferson and Madison were equally loath to proceed to extremities by declaring war. The Embargo Act of the former administration had some influence in decreasing the Republican majority in the electoral college, but a schism in the party and the less popularity of the candidate had probably more influence in producing that result. The ascendency of the party throughout the nation was not, however, seriously impaired; nor were any new principles of party politics introduced. Even its bitterest opponents had been compelled to recognize its patriotism and fidelity to the Constitution.

Madison, personally, had been a wise and zealous promoter and defender of that instrument, and his influence in molding it to its existing form was second to none. He has, indeed, been styled "the father of the Constitution." "I hold for a fundamental point," said he, in April, 1787, "that an individual independence of the States is utterly irreconcilable with the idea of aggregate sovereignty. I think, at the same time, that a consolidation of the States into a simple republic is not less unattainable than it would be inexpedient. Let it be tried whether any middle ground can be taken."

"Let the national government be armed with a positive and complete authority in all cases where uniform measures are necessary, as in trade.... Let it also retain the powers which it now possesses.... Let this national supremacy be extended also to the judiciary.... The legislative department may be divided into two branches ....A national executive will also be necessary.... An article....guaranteeing the States against internal as well as external dangers."

George Clinton, candidate of a section of the Republican party, received six of the nineteen electoral votes of his own State, New York.

FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 47. { Charles C. Pinckney, candidate. The Federalists being in opposition since 1801, their views had become somewhat modified. They were no longer strenuous advocates of the "implied and constructive" powers of the Federal government. They had opposed the purchase of Louisiana on the ground, among others, that the Constitution did not entrust Congress with such powers; and they railed at the Embargo Act, as not included in the power to regulate commerce. "This measure rekindled the old fires of party. He that was for the Embargo was a 'Democrat;' he that was against it, a 'Federalist.' It was a wall between the parties....in every State, city, county, town, village and hamlet....and in every class and condition of the people."

1813 to 1817—JAMES MADISON, President—Second Term.

States voting, 18; total electoral vote, 218; not cast, 1.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 128. { The Republicans had entered on the campaign of 1808 with the avowal that "its only choice lay between the embargo and war, and war should be avoided as long as possible;" and Madison had endeavored by diplomacy and remonstrance to avert a rupture with England. This course having proved ineffective, and the insults to the nation having grown more intolerable because of his forbearance, the leaders of the party demanded that he should yield to the wishes of the people, and the declaration of war against Great Britain was approved by him June 18th, 1812. The presidential campaign of the year hinged on that measure and some minor domestic conditions: Sectional jealousy of Virginia, as "the mother of presidents;" the antagonism of a peace faction which on religious grounds deprecated war with Great Britain, "the bulwark of Protestantism" and "the world's last hope;" and the partisanship of the Federalists who opposed it as an administration measure. The president having committed himself to war, was a strenuous advocate and promoter by word and work of all that it implied, and was supported by the great body of the people, though some of the New England States refused to supply their quotas of troops, and a few misguided Federalists gave aid and comfort to the enemy.

Otherwise the political views of the party underwent no serious change, and the following brief analysis of the Constitution by Madison shows his appreciation of the unique and nicely-balanced American system of government which secures sovereignty to the Federal as well as the State authorities within their respective spheres. "The Constitution," said he, "is in strictness neither a national nor a federal constitution, but a composition of both. In its foundation it is federal, not national; in the sources from which the ordinary powers of the government are drawn it is partly federal and partly national; in the operation of these powers it is national, not federal; in the extent of them, again, it is federal, not national; and, finally, in the authoritative mode of introducing amendments it is neither wholly federal nor wholly national."

FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 89. { De Witt Clinton, candidate. The supporters of Clinton were partly Federalists and partly disaffected Republicans, the coalition being designated Clintonians.

Clintonian Platform Abridged: 1. Opposition to the congressional caucus system of nomination of presidential candidates; 2, to an official regency self-constituted to prescribe tenets of political faith and tests of political orthodoxy; 3, to a monopoly of the highest offices by particular States, and especially to the continuance of a Virginian in the presidency; 4, to the continuance of Mr. Madison in an office which, in view of our pending difficulties with Great Britain, requires an incumbent of greater decision, energy and efficiency; 5, to the lingering inadequacy of preparation for the war; 6, Averment of the existing necessity of placing the country in a condition for aggressive action for the conquest of Canada; 7, Advocacy of the election of De Witt Clinton.

Hartford Convention of Federalists recommended the adoption, by the five New England States represented, of measures: 1, To protect their citizens from the Federal military draft; 2, their own coasts with their own militia; 3, to organize their militia with full control by the respective States; 4, to labor for amendments to the Constitution—1, to ignore slaves as a basis of representation; 2, to require two-thirds vote of both Houses for admission of new States; 3, to restrict Congress in laying embargoes to sixty days; 4, to require two-thirds vote of both Houses to decree commercial non-intercourse with foreign nations; 5, the same, to declare aggressive war; 6, to exclude naturalized citizens from Federal offices; 7, to limit the president to one term, and to exclude from the immediate succession a citizen of the same State.

1817 to 1821—JAMES MONROE, President.

States voting, 19; total electoral vote, 221; not cast, 4.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 183. { No marked change of party views characterized the election of Monroe. He was recognized as the natural successor of Madison, as the latter was of Jefferson. The happy termination of the war had given the party such a bold on popular confidence that they could afford to be more tolerant of their opponents' views and even to engraft some of them on their own principles. An effort was made to wipe out party lines, and the president's wishes in that direction were re-inforced by the advice of Gen. Jackson, "to exterminate that monster called party spirit." "The chief magistrate of a great and powerful nation," he added, "should never indulge in party feelings. His conduct should be liberal and disinterested; always bearing in mind, that he acts for the whole and not a part of the community." On his tour of inspection of national defenses, the president in reply to an address at Kennebunk, Maine, spoke as follows: "You are pleased to express a confident hope that a spirit of mutual conciliation may be one of the blessings which may result from my administration. This indeed would be an eminent blessing, and I pray it may be realized. Nothing but union is wanting to make us a great people. The present time affords the happiest presage that this union is fast consummating. It cannot be otherwise; I daily see greater proofs of it. The further I advance in my progress in the country, the more I perceive that we are all Americans—that we compose but one family—that our republican institutions will be supported and perpetuated by the united zeal and patriotism of all. Nothing could give me greater satisfaction than to behold a perfect union among ourselves—a union which is necessary to restore to social intercourse its former charms, and to render our happiness, as a nation, unmixed and complete. To promote this desirable result requires no compromise of principle, and I promise to give it my continued attention, and my best endeavors."

As early as 1785 Monroe had favored an enlargement of the powers of Congress under the Articles of Confederation, and although distrustful of what he deemed the too liberal grant of power to the Federal government by the Constitution, and its too limited recognition of the rights of the citizen, upon the adoption of the first ten amendments to that instrument guaranteeing those rights, he became its consistent supporter, and during his term, like his predecessor, adopted some of the measures that were originally characteristic of Federalist views. He was, however, always mindful of the principle of popular sovereignty. "It is only," said he in his inaugural, "when the people become ignorant and corrupt—when they degenerate into a populace—that they are incapable of exercising sovereignty." From these causes his administration became known as "the era of good feeling."

FEDERALIST; Electoral vote, 34. { Rufus King, candidate. The party organization was continued until this election, but its standard-bearer was only the leader of a forlorn hope. It had forfeited whatever hold it had retained through the two administrations of Jefferson and the first of Madison on the confidence of the people, by its factious antagonism to the War of 1812-15, and by the proceedings of the Hartford Convention of 1814. The strong government principles for which it stood had been proved unnecessary by the happy issue of a war conducted by their political opponents.

1821 to 1825—JAMES MONROE, President—Second Term.

States voting, 23; total electoral vote, 235; votes not cast, 3.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 232. { The president's policy had been so wise and liberal that the "era of good feeling" had been fully established at the period of his second election. By a process of natural selections in politics some of the more valuable principles of the Federalists had been adopted, and the Republican party of the period embraced "loose," as well as "strict constructionists," while awaiting a new differentiation of political issues of sufficient importance to form the bases of new parties. The president had increased the army and navy in numbers and efficiency, strengthened the national defenses, encouraged commerce, favored the United States bank, and promoted the general welfare by many prudent measures regardless of their origin, whether Federalist or Republican. Somewhat similarly the Federalist party before its final dissolution had changed places with its old antagonists, having become "strict constructionists" of the powers of the general government in the late war.

It was a period when, says Benton, "the word economy had an existence in fact as well as in name. It was my first year in Congress; and while economy was claimed as a distinctive Republican virtue (for the name of Democrat had not been taken), I owe it to candor and to justice to say that I saw the same regard for economy in the Federal members (for neither had they at that time changed their name), that I did in the Republican. Less than $9,000,000 a year for working the government at that time."

The Monroe Doctrine, from the President's message of Dec. 2d, 1823.

. . . . "The citizens of the United States cherish sentiments the most friendly in favor of the liberty and happiness of their fellow-men on the other side of the Atlantic. In wars of the European powers, in matters relating to themselves, we have never taken any part, nor does it comport with our policy to do so. It is only when our rights are invaded, or seriously menaced, that we resent injuries, or make preparation for our defense. The political system of the allied powers is essentially different in this respect from that of America. The difference proceeds from that which exists in our respective governments; and to the defense of our own, which has been achieved by the loss of so much blood and treasure, and matured by the wisdom of our most enlightened citizens and under which we have enjoyed unexampled felicity, this whole nation is devoted. We owe it, therefore, to candor and the amicable relations existing between the United States and those powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered; but with the governments which have declared their independence, and maintained it, and whose independence we have, on great consideration and on just principles, acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them, or controlling in any other manner their destiny, by any European power, in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States. . . . . Our policy in regard to Europe, which was adopted at an early stage of the wars which have so long agitated that quarter of the globe, nevertheless remains the same, which is, not to interfere in the internal concerns of any of its powers; to consider the government de facto as the legitimate government for us; to cultivate friendly relations with it, and to preserve those relations by a frank, firm and manly policy; meeting, in all instances, the just claims of every power, submitting to injuries from none. But in regard to these continents [North and South America] circumstances are eminently and conspicuously different. It is impossible that the allied powers should extend their political system to any portion of either continent without endangering our peace and happiness."

John Quincy Adams, candidate of a small faction of Republicans and former Federalists, prevented the re-election of Monroe from being unanimous.

1825 to 1829—John Quincy Adams, President.

States voting, 24; total electoral vote, 261; not cast, 1.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 261. Popular vote, 352,062. } Republican principles, somewhat modified by the responsibilities of actual administration of the government for a quarter of a century as well as by the influences of the opposition, had now gained complete ascendency. Soon after the establishment of the government under the Constitution, and indeed, while its adoption was under consideration, "we broke," said Jefferson, "into two parties, each wishing to give the government a different direction; the one—the Republican—to strengthen the most popular branch; the other—the Federal—the more permanent branches and to extend their permanence." The contests of a generation had ended, leaving the former party without organized opposition. There were four candidates for the presidency in 1824, all Republicans, and no political issues, whence the campaign was nicknamed, rather disrespectfully, as "the scrub race for the presidency." No candidate having received a majority, the contest was carried into the House of Representatives, which elected Mr. Adams, who had received only 84 electoral votes and a popular vote of 105,321. He might be characterized as the Eastern or New England candidate, and was backed by the prestige of his father, the influence of the unorganized Federalists, and the more effective aid of the "loose-constructionist Republicans" under the leadership of Henry Clay.

Andrew Jackson—Electoral vote, 99; Popular vote, 155,872.

Andrew Jackson might be characterized as the military-prestige candidate, and he received the largest number of electoral votes, but was defeated in the House of Representatives by an alleged coalition of the friends of Henry Clay with his own partisans. The representatives of districts which had given a majority for Jackson were considered to have betrayed their trust in voting for Adams in the House, and though their action was legal they lost caste with their constituents and were relegated to private life at the ensuing Congressional election, when friends of Jackson were very generally chosen. Thus were public men taught to recognize that the preferences of the people could not be disregarded with impunity, even where Constitutional rights only were exercised. It also led to the abolition of the caucus system of nominating presidential candidates. The first choice of the people was not the nominee of the caucus, and this earlier attempt of the same Congress to dictate the choice of the people was so effectively rebuked that congressional caucus nominations were replaced by the Convention system. The caucus was characterized by Rufus King as "a new, extraordinary, self-created central power, stronger than the power of the Constitution, which has risen up at the seat of government."

Wm. H. Crawford—Electoral vote, 41, Popular vote, 44,282.

William Harris Crawford was the candidate of the Congressional caucus. He was Secretary of the Treasury at the time of his nomination, had previously been Secretary of War, Minister to France, and a Senator from Georgia. Bred a lawyer he entered public life at the age of thirty-one as a member of the State legislature and while in the United States senate was regarded as its ablest member. His chance of winning the presidency was marred by being the nominee of the caucus at a time when it had begun to be unpopular, and when its claims to the confidence of the people were antagonized by three rival candidates of great local and personal popularity.

Henry Clay—Electoral vote, 37; Popular vote, 46,587.

Henry Clay, the fourth presidential candidate, represented the "loose-constructionist" wing of the great party to which all the candidates belonged, and was personally and locally popular in his section. When defeated in the electoral college and barred from election by the House as the candidate receiving the least number of votes, he threw his influence in favor of Adams and secured his election. In regard to his action in the matter there is no reason to doubt the truth of his own statement made to a friend, Jan. 28, 1825: "My position in regard to the presidential contest is highly critical, and such as to leave me no path on which I can move without censure. I have pursued in regard to it the rule which I always observe in the discharge of my public duty. I have interrogated my conscience as to what I ought to do, and it tells me I ought to vote for Mr. Adams."

1829 to 1833—Andrew Jackson, President.

States voting, 24; total electoral vote, 261.

DEMOCRATIC; Electoral vote, 178: Popular vote, 647,231. } During the previous administration the Republican party became divided, on the line which has constituted the underlying basis of separation in all our political history, into "strict," and "loose-constructionists" of the powers of Federal government. The former finally adopted the party name Democratic, which at first had been directed at them as a reproach and which for many years had been used in qualification of, and later at all interchangeably with their chosen name Republican. There was, however, but little change of principles, except, as before stated, by gradual political evolution as affected by the antagonism of the Federalists, their own ripened experience in administration and the beneficial influence of increased confidence in the good working qualities of the Constitution as established and amended. The election of Jackson was regarded as a triumph of the people over the political leaders, who were held to have proved recreant to their trust in the previous election. His military successes, years before, had made him the idol of the people who looked upon him as one of themselves, and had a well-founded confidence in his sincerity as well as his instinctive sympathy with their wants and wishes. His views, as indicated by his inaugural, did not differ essentially from those of his more immediate predecessors. He promised "to take care not to confound the reserved powers of the separate States with those which they had granted to the Confederacy;" to recognize the constitutional limits as well as extent of his official powers—affirming in that connection that "the recent demonstration of public sentiment [at the late election] inscribes on the list of executive duties, in characters too legible to be overlooked, the task of Reform"—to improve the finances; to correct abuses; to strengthen the militia; and to cultivate friendly relations with foreign nations. In his first message he indicated a preference for electing the president and vice-president by direct vote of the people. "It was never designed," he said, "that their choice should in any case be defeated, either by the intervention of electoral colleges, or by the agency confided under certain contingencies to the House of Representatives. Experience proves that in proportion as agents to secure the will of the people are multiplied, there is danger of their wishes being frustrated. Some may be unfaithful. All are liable to err. So far, therefore, as the people can with convenience speak, it is safer for them to express their own will." With characteristic directness he removed officials for differing with him in political opinion, and he is held responsible for the introduction into American politics of the spoils system. "During the first year of his administration there were nearly seven hundred removals from office, not including subordinate clerks. During the forty years preceding there had been but sixty-four." He had forcibly deprecated such removals a few years before, and it is only fair to assume that his change of views was due to what he deemed a political necessity. He was, he said, "too old a soldier to leave his garrison in the hands of his enemies."

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 83; Popular vote, 509,097. } John Q. Adams, candidate.

The "loose-constructionist" wing of the late Republican party assumed the name of the National Republican, the qualifying adjectives helping to appropriately designate the inheritance from the disbanded Federalists of the principle which might be described as the Nation above the States. They also favored a protective tariff while their opponents represented substantially a tariff for revenue only. In the matter of internal improvements at national expense they also favored a broader sweep of the principle involved than did the Democrats who had adopted it as it were under protest, and to be exercised only with great discretion as an implied consequence of the military, commercial or other power of the Federal government.

The Nullification Faction in South Carolina assumed form by an act of the State legislature, in November, 1832, nullifying the Tariff Act of Congress, as unconstitutional, to which President Jackson promptly replied by sending troops and issuing a proclamation, saying, among other things, "If South Carolina considers the revenue laws unconstitutional, and has a right to prevent their execution in the port of Charleston, there would be a clear constitutional objection to their collection in every other port, and no revenue could be collected anywhere; for all imports must be equal."

1833 to 1837—ANDREW JACKSON, President—Second Term.

States voting, 24; total electoral vote, 288; not cast, 2.

DEMOCRATIC; Electoral vote, 230; Popular vote, 687,502. } "The people of the United States," said Jackson, in his Nullification Proclamation of 1832, "formed the Constitution, acting through the State Legislatures in making the compact, to meet and discuss its provisions, and acting in separate conventions when they ratified those provisions; but the terms used in the Constitution show it to be a government in which the people of all the States collectively are represented. We are one people in the choice of President and Vice-president. Here the States have no other agency than to direct the mode in which the votes shall be given. . . . The people then, and not the States, are represented in the executive branch. . . . In the House of Representatives, the members are all representatives of the United States, not representatives of the particular States from which they come. They are paid by the United States, not by the State, nor are they accountable to it for any act done in the performance of their legislative functions.

"The Constitution of the United States, then, forms a government, not a league; and whether it be formed by compact between the States, or in any other manner, its character is the same. It is a government in which all the people are represented, which operates directly on the people individually, not upon the States. They retained all the power they did not grant; but each State having expressly parted with so many powers as to constitute, jointly with the other States, a single nation, cannot from that period possess any right to secede, because such secession does not break a league, but destroys the unity of the nation, and any injury to that unity is not only a breach which could result from the contravention of a compact, but is an offense against the whole Union. To say that any State may at pleasure secede from the Union, is to say that the United States are not a nation, because it would be a solecism to contend that any part of a nation might dissolve its connection with the other parts, to their injury or ruin, without committing an offense. Secession, like any other revolutionary act, may be morally justified by the extremity of oppression; but to call it a constitutional right is confounding the meaning of terms."

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 49; Popular vote, 530,189. } Henry Clay, candidate.

"Resolved,—That an adequate protection to American industry is indispensable to the prosperity of the country and that an abandonment of the policy at this period would be attended with consequences ruinous to the best interests of the nation.

"That a uniform system of internal improvements, sustained and supported by the general government, is calculated to secure in the highest degree, the harmony, the strength and permanency of the republic.

"That the indiscriminate removal of public officers for a mere difference of political opinion, is gross abuse of power; and that the doctrine lately boldly preached in the United States Senate, that 'to the victors belong the spoils of the vanquished,' is detrimental to the interests, corrupting to the morals, and dangerous to the liberties of the country."—By Ratification Meeting at Washington, May 11, 1832.

ANTI-MASONIC; Electoral vote, 7; Popular vote, 33,108. — William Wirt, candidate. Its leading principle is indicated by its name. Its electoral votes were Vermont's.

1837 to 1841—Martin Van Buren, President.

States voting, 26; total electoral vote, 294.

DEMOCRATIC; Electoral vote, 170; Popular vote, 761,549. — The strongest expression of Democratic principles in the campaign of 1836, was made by the New York Democrats, locally known as the "Equal Rights," and nicknamed the "Locofoco" party, as follows:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: that the true foundation of republican government is the equal rights of every citizen in his person and property, and in their management: that the idea is quite unfounded that on entering into society we give up our natural rights; that the rightful power of all legislation is to declare and enforce only our natural rights and duties, and to take none of them from us; that no man has the natural right to commit aggressions on the equal rights of another, and this is all from which the law ought to restrain him; that every man is under the natural duty of contributing to the necessities of society, and this is all the law should enforce on him; that when the laws have declared and enforced all this, they have fulfilled their functions.

"We declare unqualified hostility to bank notes and paper money as a circulating medium, because gold and silver is the only safe and constitutional currency; hostility to all monopolies by legislation, because they are violations of equal rights of the people; hostility to the dangerous and unconstitutional creation of vested rights or prerogatives by legislation, because they are usurpations of the people's sovereign rights; no legislative or other authority in the body politic can rightfully, by charter or otherwise, exempt any man or body of men, in any case whatever, from trial by jury and the jurisdiction or operation of the laws which govern the community.

"We hold that each and every law or act of incorporation, passed by preceding legislatures, can be rightfully altered and repealed by their successors; and that they should be altered or repealed when necessary for the public good, or when required by a majority of the people."

From Van Buren's Inaugural:—"A strict adherence to the letter and spirit of the Constitution. . . . Looking back to it as a sacred instrument, . . . remembering that it was throughout a work of concession and compromise; viewing it as limited to national objects; regarding it as leaving to the people and the States all power not explicitly parted with, I shall endeavor to preserve, protect and defend it, by anxiously referring to its provisions for direction in every action. To matters of domestic concernment which it has intrusted to the Federal government, and to such as relate to our intercourse with foreign nations, I shall zealously devote myself; beyond those limits I shall never pass."

Hugh L. White, candidate of the Anti-Van Buren section of Democrats, received the thirty-six electoral votes of Georgia and Tennessee.

Willie P. Mangum received the eleven electoral votes of South Carolina, also Anti-Van Buren Democrats.

WHIG; Electoral vote, 73; Popular vote, 736,656. — William Henry Harrison, candidate.

The name Whig was adopted by the National Republicans probably as indicative of their contest with the national executive. As the English Whigs had declared that the power of the throne "had increased, was increasing and ought to be diminished," so the new American Whigs protested against the alleged arbitrary assumption of power by the president.

Whig Resolutions of 1836: "1. That in support of our cause, we invite all citizens opposed to Martin Van Buren and the Baltimore nominees. 2. That Martin Van Buren, by intriguing with the executive to obtain his influence to elect him to the presidency, has set an example dangerous to our freedom and corrupting to our free institutions. 3. That the support we render to Wm. Henry Harrison is by no means given to him solely on account of his brilliant and successful services as leader of our armies during the last war, but that in him we view also the man of high intellect, the stern patriot, uncontaminated by the machinery of hackneyed [nominee for vice-president] politicians—a man of the school of Washington. 4. That in Francis Granger we recognize one of our most distinguished fellow-citizens, whose talents we admire, whose patriotism we trust, and whose principles we sanction."

Daniel Webster, also a Whig, received the fourteen electoral votes of Massachusetts.

1841 to 1845—WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, President.

States voting, 26; total electoral vote, 294.

WHIG; Electoral vote, 234; Popular vote, 1,275,017. — John Tyler, vice-president, succeeded to the presidency on death of Harrison, April 4, 1841.

The Whigs issued no platform of principles, the campaign being conducted as a purely aggressive one, with "resistance to usurpation, misrule and despotism," as a battle-cry. Besides their attacks on President Van Buren's policy, his errors of commission and omission, they fiercely combated the claim to re-election of "a Northern man with Southern principles."

By some of his adversaries he was very unreasonably held responsible for the financial panic and commercial depression which marked the period of his administration, and the discouragement of the people from that cause was not without its influence in producing a change.

The principles of the party may be gathered from the Whig resolutions of 1836, and the following statement of views by Henry Clay in 1842: "A sound national currency, regulated by the will and authority of the nation. An adequate revenue, with fair protection to American industry. Just restraints on the executive power, embracing a further restriction on the exercise of the veto. A faithful administration of the public domain, with an equitable distribution of the proceeds of sales of it among all the States."

"The Whig party comprised," says Greeley: "1. Most of those who, under the name of National Republicans, had previously been known as supporters of Adams and Clay, and the advocates of the 'American System.' 2. Most of those who . . . had been stigmatized as Nullifiers or the less virulent State-rights men. . . 3. A majority of those known before as Anti-Masons. 4. Many who up to that time [1834] had been known as Jackson men, but who united in condemning the high-handed conduct of the Executive. . . . 5. Numbers who had not before taken any part in politics, but who were now awakened from their apathy by the palpable usurpations of the Executive."

DEMOCRATIC; Electoral vote, 60; Popular vote, 1,128,702. — Martin Van Buren, candidate. Platform of 1840 condensed: 1. The Federal government is one of limited powers and subject to strict construction; it is inexpedient and dangerous to exercise doubtful constitutional powers. 2. Internal improvements on a general scale, and (3) Federal assumption of State debts contracted for such purposes unconstitutional, and neither just nor expedient. 4. Justice and sound policy forbid the fostering of one branch of industry to the detriment of another. 5. Rigid economy the duty of the government, and revenue should be raised only for necessary expenses. 6. Congress has no power to charter a United States bank—an institution of deadly hostility to the best interests of the country, placing business within the control of a concentrated money power. 7. Congress has no power to interfere with or control the domestic institutions [slavery] of the States; and the efforts of Abolitionists endanger the stability of the Union. 8. The separation of government funds from banks indispensable. 9. Ours is the land of liberty and the asylum of the oppressed, and every attempt to abridge the privileges of becoming citizens ought to be resisted.

LIBERTY ("ABOLITION"); Electoral vote, 0; Popular vote, 7,509. — James G. Birney, candidate. Abolition Resolution of 1839:—"Resolved,—That in our judgment every consideration of duty and expediency which ought to control the action of Christian freemen requires of the abolitionists of the United States to organize a distinct and independent political party, embracing all the necessary means for nominating candidates for office and sustaining them by public suffrage."

Platform of 1840 called for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia and in the Territories; the abolition of the inter-state slave-trade; and opposition to slavery to the extent of using all constitutional methods for its abolition.

1845 to 1849—JAMES KNOX POLK, President.

States voting, 26; total electoral vote, 275.

DEMOCRATIC; Electoral vote, 170; Popular vote, 1,337,243. — Platform.—As in 1840, with these additions:

10. "The proceeds of the public lands ought to be sacredly applied to the national objects specified in the Constitution, and that we are opposed to the laws lately adopted, and to any law for the distribution of such proceeds among the States, as alike inexpedient in policy and repugnant to the Constitution.

11. "We are decidedly opposed to taking from the president the qualified veto power by which he is enabled, under restrictions and responsibilities amply sufficient to guard the public interest, to suspend the passage of a bill whose merits cannot secure the approval of two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, until the judgment of the people can be obtained thereon, and which has thrice saved the American people from the corrupt and tyrannical domination of the bank of the United States.

12. "Our title to the whole of the territory of Oregon is clear and unquestionable; no portion of the same ought to be ceded to England or any other power; and the re-occupation of Oregon and the re-annexation of Texas at the earliest practicable period, are great American measures, which this convention recommends to the cordial support of the Democracy of the Union."

"Let Texas be re-annexed," said Polk in 1844, "and the authority and laws of the United States be established and maintained within her limits, as also in the Oregon Territory; and let the fixed policy of our government be, not to permit Great Britain to plant a colony or hold dominion over any portion of the people or territory of either."

"The Constitution itself," said he in his inaugural, in 1845, "plainly written as it is, the safeguard of our federative compact, the offspring of concession and compromise, binding together in the bonds of peace and union this great and increasing family of free and independent States, will be the chart by which I shall be guided."

WHIG; Electoral vote, 105; Popular vote, 1,299,068. — Henry Clay, candidate—Third time. Platform.—"Resolved, That these principles may be summed as comprising a well-regulated national currency; a tariff for revenue to defray the necessary expenses of the government, and discriminating with special reference to the protection of the domestic labor of the country; the distribution of the proceeds from the sales of the public lands; a single term for the presidency; a reform of executive usurpations; and generally such an administration of the affairs of the country as shall impart to every branch of the public service the greatest practical efficiency, controlled by a well-regulated and wise economy."

"An honest and economical administration of the government," said Clay in 1842, "leaving public officers perfect freedom of thought and of the right of suffrage, but with suitable restraints against improper interference in elections. An amendment of the Constitution limiting the incumbent of the presidential office to a single term. These objects attained, I think we should cease to be afflicted with bad administration of the government." And in 1844 he said, "I know of only one safe rule . . . to satisfy ourselves of what is right, and firmly . . . pursue it." He had said twelve years before, "I would rather be right than be president."

LIBERTY; Electoral vote, 0; Popular vote, 62,300. — James G. Birney, candidate. Platform of 1844.—Comprised twenty-five resolutions, of which the first two were. "That human brotherhood is a cardinal principle of true democracy, as well as of pure Christianity, which spurns all inconsistent limitations; and neither the political party which repudiates it, nor the political system which is not based upon it, can be truly democratic or permanent. That the Liberty party, placing itself upon this broad principle, will demand the absolute and unqualified divorce of the general government from slavery, and also the restoration of equality of rights among men, in every State where the party exists or may exist." It was claimed that their vote gave the presidency to the Democrats 1849 to 1853—ZACHARY TAYLOR, President.

States voting, 30; total electoral vote, 290.

WHIG; Electoral vote, 163; Popular vote, 1,360,101. — Millard Fillmore succeeded to the presidency on the death of Taylor, July 9, 1850.

Platform condensed.—1. Ratifies nomination of Zachary Taylor as president and Millard Fillmore as vice-president. 2. Expresses joy at finding Mr. Taylor's opinions conservative and faithful "to the great example of former days, and to the principles of the Constitution as administered by the founders. 3. That Gen. Taylor, in saying that, had he voted in 1844, he would have voted the Whig ticket, gives us the assurance . . . . that the heart that was with us then is with us now. 4. That we look on his administration of the government as one conducive of peace, prosperity and union. . . . . 5. That standing, as the Whig party does, on the broad and firm platform of the Constitution, braced up by all its inviolable and sacred guarantees and compromises . . . . we are proud to have as the exponent of our opinions one . . . . who has said . . . . that he will make Washington's administration his model." 6. Is occupied with a brief recital of Taylor's military services. 7. Asks united, zealous, resolute cooperation of all Whigs "in behalf of our candidate, whom calumny cannot reach, and with respectful demeanor to our adversaries, whose candidates have yet to prove their claims on the gratitude of the nation."

1. "I reiterate," said Taylor, "what I have so often said: I am a Whig. If elected, I would not be the mere president of a party . . . . 2. The power given by the Constitution to the executive to interpose his veto is a high conservative power, but in my opinion should never be exercised except in cases of clear violation of the Constitution, or manifest haste and want of consideration by Congress.... 3. Upon the subjects of the tariff, the currency, the improvement of our great highways, rivers, lakes and harbors, the will of the people, as expressed through their representatives in Congress, ought to be respected and carried out by the executive. 4. I sincerely rejoice at the prospect of peace.... The principles of our government, as well as its true policy, are opposed to the subjugation of other nations and the dismemberment of other countries by conquest."

DEMOCRATIC; Electoral vote, 127; Popular vote, 1,220,544. } Lewis Cass, candidate. Platform condensed: "1. Resolved, "That the American Democracy place their trust in the intelligence, the patriotism, and the discriminating justice of the American people. 2. We regard this [trust] as a distinctive feature of our political creed.... and contrast it with the creed and practice of federalism, under whatever name or form .... 3. The Democratic party.... renew and re-assert before the American people the declaration of principles avowed by them on a former occasion." [Here follow resolutions 1, 2, 3 and 4, of 1840. 8.... "No more revenue ought to be raised than is required to defray the necessary expenses of the government, and for the gradual but certain extinction of the debt.... [Here follows resolution 5, of 1840, with the addition]: "And that the results of Democratic legislation, in this and all other financial measures.... have demonstrated.... their soundness, safety and utility in all business pursuits." [Here follow resolutions 7, 8 and 9, of 1840, and 10 and 11 of 1844.] 15, 16 and 17. Justify the war with Mexico, and compliment the army for its services therein. 18. Tenders fraternal congratulations to National Convention of the Republic of France. 19. Declares the duty of the Democratic party "to sustain and advance among us constitutional liberty, equality and fraternity, by continuing to resist all monopolies".... 20. Orders a copy of these resolutions to be forwarded to the French Republic. 21. Recapitulates the chief measures of Polk's administration and declares that "it would be a fatal error to weaken the hands of a political organization by which these great reforms have been achieved, and risk them in the hands of their known adversaries".... 22. Compliments and congratulates President Polk. 23. Presents Lewis Cass as candidate.

FREE SOIL; Electoral vote, 0; Popular vote, 291,263. } Martin Van Buren, candidate. Platform of 1848.—An eloquent and impassioned appeal, in a three-fold preamble and sixteen resolutions, against the extension of slavery, from which the following are brief extracts: "A common resolve to maintain the rights of free labor against the aggressions of the slave power, and to secure free soil to a free people." "We propose no interference by Congress with slavery within the limits of any State." "It was the settled policy of the nation [from 1784 to 1800] not to extend, nationalize or encourage .... slavery, and to this policy.... the government ought to return." "Congress has no more power to make a slave than to make a king." "The only safe means of preventing the extension of slavery into territory now free, is to prevent its extension into such territory by an act of Congress." "We accept the issue which the slave power has forced upon us; and to their demand for more slave States and more slave territory, our calm but final answer is, no more slave States and no more slave territory." "There must be no more compromises with slavery; if made, they must be repealed." "We demand cheap postage for the people." "River and harbor improvements.... are objects of national concern." "The free grant to actual settlers....of reasonable portions of the public lands, under suitable limitations, is a wise and just measure of public policy." "Honor and patriotism require the earliest practical payment of the public debt." "We inscribe on our banner, 'Free Soil, Free Speech, Free Labor and Free Men,' and under it we will fight on, and fight ever, until a triumphant victory shall reward our exertions."

LIBERTY LEAGUE; } Gerritt Smith, candidate. The Liberty League, the radical wing of the Free-Soil, or Liberty Party. Platform—The duty and the right of the Federal government to abolish slavery even in the slave States. Motto—Duty is ours, results are God's.

1853 to 1857—FRANKLIN PIERCE, President.

States voting 31; total electoral vote, 296.

DEMOCRATIC; Electoral vote, 254; Popular vote, 1,601,474. } Platform of 1852 was mainly composed of planks borrowed from the platforms of 1840, 1844 and 1848, with these additions: "The Democratic party of the Union, standing on this national platform, will abide by, and adhere to a faithful execution of the acts known as the Compromise measures settled by last Congress, 'the act for reclaiming fugitives from service labor,' included." "The Democratic party will resist all attempts at renewing in Congress, or out of it, the agitation of the slavery question, under whatever shape or color the attempt may be made." "The Democratic party will faithfully abide by and uphold the principles laid down in the Kentucky and Virginia resolutions of 1799 and 1798, and in the report of Mr. Madison to the Virginia legislature in 1799." "The war with Mexico, upon all the principles of patriotism and the law of nations, was a just and necessary war on our part, in which no American citizen should have shown himself opposed to his country." "We rejoice at the restoration of friendly relations with our sister republic of Mexico, and earnestly desire for her all the blessings and prosperity which we enjoy under republican institutions, and we congratulate the American people on the results of that war, which have so manifestly justified the policy and conduct of the Democratic party, and insured to the United States indemnity for the past and security for the future."

"In view of the condition of popular institutions in the old world, a high and sacred duty is devolved with increased responsibility upon the Democracy of this country, as the party of the people, to uphold and maintain the rights of every State, and thereby the union of States, and to sustain and advance among them constitutional liberty, by continuing to resist all monopolies and exclusive legislation for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many, and by a vigilant and constant adherence to those principles and compromises of the Constitution, which are broad enough and strong enough to embrace and uphold the Union as it is, and the Union as it should be, in the full expansion of the energies and capacity of this great and progressive people."

WHIG; Electoral vote, 42; Popular vote, 1,386,578. } Winfield Scott, candidate. Platform.—Substantially a repetition of former announcements of the same character, with the additions: "The Union should be revered and watched over as the palladium of our liberties." "As the people make and control the government, they should obey its constitution, laws and treaties as they would retain their self-respect and the respect which they claim and will enforce from foreign powers." "The Federal and State governments are parts of one system, alike necessary for the common prosperity, peace and security, and ought to be regarded alike with a cordial, habitual and immovable attachment." "The series of acts of the 32nd Congress, the last known as the Fugitive Slave Law included, are received and acquiesced in by the Whig party."

FREE DEMOCRACY; Electoral vote, 0. Popular vote, 156,149. } John P. Hale, candidate. Platform. — Substantially a reiteration of former principles, with additions suited to the times: "Slavery is a sin against God, and no crime against man, which no human enactment nor usage can make right." "The Fugitive Slave Law of 1850 is repugnant to the Constitution.... we therefore deny its binding force on the American people, and demand its immediate and total repeal." "Slavery is sectional and freedom national." "We recommend.... the amicable settlement of [international] difficulties by a resort to decisive arbitrations." "The Free Democratic party is not organized to aid either the Whig or Democratic wing of the great slave compromise party of the nation, but to defeat them both." "We inscribe Free Soil, &c., [as in 1848]."

1857 to 1861—JAMES BUCHANAN, President.

States voting, 31; total electoral vote, 296.

DEMOCRATIC; Electoral vote, 174; Popular vote, 1,838,169. } Platform. — Substantially reiterates former documents of the same kind, with additions: "It is proper that the American democracy should clearly define its relations thereto [a party claiming to be exclusively American, the "Know Nothing" party]; and declare its determined opposition to all secret political societies, by whatever name they may be called." "No party can justly be deemed national, constitutional, or in accordance with American principles, which bases its exclusive organization upon religious principles and accidental birthplace." "We reiterate with renewed energy of purpose the well-considered declarations of former conventions upon the sectional issue of domestic slavery, and concerning the reserved rights of the States." "Claiming fellowship with, and desiring the co-operation of all who regard the preservation of the Union under the Constitution as a paramount issue, and repudiating all sectional parties and platforms concerning domestic slavery which seek to embroil the States and incite to treason and armed resistance to law in the territories, and whose avowed purpose, if consummated, must end in civil war and disunion, the American democracy recognize and adopt the principles contained in the organic laws establishing the territories of Nebraska and Kansas, as embodying the only sound and safe solution of the slavery question." "There are questions connected with the foreign policy of this country which are inferior to no domestic questions whatever." "The time has come for the people of the United States to declare themselves in favor of free seas and progressive free trade throughout the world." "We should hold sacred the principles of the Monroe doctrine." "The Democratic party will expect of the next administration that every proper effort be made to insure our ascendency in the Gulf of Mexico." "The administration of Franklin Pierce has been true to the Democratic principles, and therefore true to the great interests of the country."

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 114; Popular vote, 1,341,264. } John C. Fremont, candidate. Platform condensed "....Opposed to the repeal of the Missouri Compromise... Resolved, That the maintenance of the principles promulgated in the Declaration of Independence, and embodied in the Federal Constitution, is essential to the preservation of our republican institutions, and that the Federal Constitution, the rights of the States, and the union of the States shall be preserved... That we deny the authority of Congress, of a Territorial legislature, of any individual or association of individuals, to give legal existence to slavery in any Territory of the United States, while the present Constitution shall be maintained. That the Constitution confers upon Congress sovereign power over the Territories of the United States for their government, and that in the exercise of this power it is both the right and the imperative duty of Congress to prohibit in the Territories those twin relics of barbarism—polygamy and slavery. That....the dearest constitutional rights of the people of Kansas have been fraudulently and violently taken from them.... that for this high crime against the Constitution, the Union and humanity, we arraign the administration, the President, his advisers....before the country and before the world .... That Kansas should be immediately admitted as a State of the Union with her present free constitution.... That....the Ostend circular was in every respect unworthy of American diplomacy.... That a railroad to the Pacific....is imperatively demanded .... and that the Federal government ought to render immediate and efficient aid....That....the improvement of rivers and harbors of a national character....is authorized by the Constitution....That we invite the affiliation and co-operation of the men of all parties....as the spirit of our institutions, as well as the constitution of our country, guarantees liberty of conscience and equality of rights among citizens, we oppose all proscriptive legislation affecting their security."

The more radical wing of the Whig party in the North, and the Free-Soil party, with fresh accessions from anti-slavery Democrats, may be regarded as the chief components of the Republican party, organized under that name in February, 1854.

AMERICAN ("Know-Nothing"); Electoral vote, 8; Popular vote, 874,534. } Millard Fillmore, candidate. Platform.—"Humble acknowledgment to the Supreme Being.....The perpetuation of the Federal Union....the bulwark of American independence....Americans must rule America.....No person shall be selected for political station....who recognizes any allegiance....to any foreign power.....Unqualified recognition and maintenance of the reserved rights of the several States....and non-interference of Congress.....Citizens of the United States, permanently residing in any Territory thereof, to frame their constitution and laws.....No State or Territory ought to admit others than citizens of the United States to the right of suffrage, or of holding political office..... A continued residence of twenty-one years....an indispensable requisite for citizenship hereafter....Opposition to any Union between Church and State; no interference with religious faith or worship; no test oaths for office....a strict economy in public expenditures..... Enforcement of all laws constitutionally enacted until said laws shall be repealed, or shall be declared null and void."

WHIG, Remnant of. } The remnant of the Whig party declared: "They have no new principle to announce; no new platform to establish; but are content to broadly rest, where their fathers rested, upon the Constitution of the United States, wishing no safer guide, no higher law," but proceeded to make some additions to their former announcements of principles.

1861 to 1865—ABRAHAM LINCOLN, President.

States voting, 33; total electoral vote, 303.

REPUBLICAN; Electoral vote, 180; Popular vote, 1,866,352. } Platform.—"Resolved, That the history of the nation during the last four years has fully established the propriety and necessity of the organization and perpetuation of the Republican party....and demand its peaceful and constitutional triumph.....That the Federal Constitution, the rights of the States, and the union of the States must and shall be preserved. That to the Union of the States this nation owes its unprecedented increase in population, its surprising development of material resources, its rapid augmentation of wealth, its happiness at home and its honor abroad; and we hold in abhorrence all schemes for disunion.... and we denounce those threats of disunion.....That the maintenance inviolate of the rights of the States.... is essential to that balance of powers on which the perfection and endurance of our political fabric depends.....That the present Democratic administration has far exceeded our worst apprehensions, in its measureless subserviency to the exactions of a sectional interest.....That a return to rigid economy and accountability is indispensable to arrest the systematic plunder of the public treasury by favored partisans.....That the new dogma, that the Constitution, of its own force, carries slavery into any or all of the Territories of the United States, is a dangerous political heresy, at variance with the explicit provisions of that instrument.... is revolutionary in its tendency, and subversive of the peace and harmony of the country. That the normal condition of all the territory of the United States is that of freedom.... and we deny the authority of Congress, [etc. as in 1856]. That we brand the recent re-opening of the African slave trade, under the cover of our national flag.... as a crime against humanity and a burning shame to our country and age.... In the recent votes, by their Federal governors, of the acts of the legislatures of Kansas and Nebraska prohibiting slavery in those Territories, we find a practical illustration of the boasted Democratic principle of non-intervention and popular sovereignty, embodied in the Kansas-Nebraska bill, and a demonstration of the deception and frauds involved therein. That Kansas should, of right, be immediately admitted as a State under the constitution recently formed.... sound policy requires such an adjustment of imposts as to encourage the development of the industrial interest of the whole country.... We protest.... against any view of the homestead policy which regards the settlers as paupers or suppliants for public bounty.... The Republican party is opposed to any change in our naturalization laws.... River and harbor improvements.... are authorized by the Constitution.... A railroad to the Pacific ocean is imperatively demanded.... We invite the co-operation of all citizens.... who substantially agree with us...."

DEMOCRATIC; J. C. Breckenridge, candidate.
Electoral vote, 84; Platform.—That of 1856 re-affirmed with these additions:
Popular vote, 2,220,920.

"All citizens have an equal right to settle with their property [slaves included] in any Territory. It is the duty of the Federal government.... to protect, when necessary, the rights of persons and property in the Territories.... When the settlers in a Territory having an adequate population form a state constitution in pursuance of law, the right of sovereignty commences.... and the State thus organized ought to be admitted into the Federal Union, whether its constitution prohibits or recognizes the institution of slavery.... in favor of the acquisition of Cuba on such terms as shall be honorable.... Enactments.... to defeat.... Fugitive Slave Law.... are.... revolutionary in their effect.... Imperative duty of this government to protect the naturalized citizen in all his rights, whether at home or in foreign lands, to the same extent as its native-born citizens.... One of the greatest necessities of the age is.... the construction of a Pacific railroad.... at the earliest practicable moment."

Independent Democratic; Stephen A. Douglas, candidate.
Electoral vote, 12;
Popular vote, 1,375,157.

Platform.—Substantially as the other division of the party, with an express pledge to abide by the decisions of the Supreme Court in relation to slavery in the Territories.

CONSTITUTIONAL UNION; John Bell, candidate.
Electoral vote, 39;
Popular vote, 589,581.

Platform.—"Experience has demonstrated that platforms adopted by the partisan conventions of the country have had the effect to mislead and deceive the people, and at the same time to widen the political divisions of the country, by the creation and encouragement of geographical and sectional parties; therefore, Resolved, That it is both the part of patriotism and duty to recognize no political principles other than the Constitution of the country, the Union of the States, and the enforcement of the laws."

REPUBLICAN; Andrew Johnson, elected Vice-President, succeeded to the Presidency upon the death of Lincoln, April 15, 1865.
Electoral vote, 212;
Popular vote, 2,216,667.

Platform.—"Resolved, that it is the highest duty of every American citizen to maintain, against all their enemies, the integrity of the Union and the paramount authority of the Constitution.... and... we pledge ourselves.... to do everything in our power to aid the government in quelling, by force of arms, the Rebellion now raging against its authority, and in bringing to the punishment due to their crimes the rebels and traitors arrayed against it.... We approve the determination of the government.... not to compromise with rebels, nor to offer them any terms of peace, except such as may be based upon an 'unconditional surrender of their hostility'... and to prosecute tho war with the utmost possible vigor to the complete suppression of the Rebellion.... As slavery was the cause, and now constitutes the strength of this Rebellion, ... we uphold and maintain the acts and proclamations by which the government, in its own defense, has aimed a death-blow at the gigantic evil.... That the thanks of the American people are due to the soldiers and sailors.... that the nation owes to them some permanent recognition. .... That we approve and applaud the practical wisdom.... with which Abraham Lincoln has discharged, under circumstances of unparalleled difficulty, the great duties and responsibilities of the presidential office.... We deem it essential to the general welfare that harmony should prevail in the national councils, and we regard as worthy of public confidence and official trust those only who cordially indorse the principles proclaimed in these resolutions.... The government owes to all men employed in its armies, without regard to distinction of color, the full protection of the laws of war... .. That foreign immigration.... should be fostered and encouraged by a liberal and just policy. That we are in favor of the speedy construction of the railroad to the Pacific coast. That the national faith, pledged for the redemption of the public debt, must be kept inviolate.... That we approve the position taken by the government, that the people of the United States can never regard with indifference the attempt of any European power to overthrow by force, or to supplant by fraud, the institutions of any republican government on the western continent...."

RADICAL; John C. Fremont, candidate, Who withdrew and recommended the support of the regular Republican ticket, which recommendation was followed.

Platform—"The Federal Union shall be preserved.... The Constitution and laws.... must be observed.... The Rebellion must be suppressed.... and without compromise.... The rights of free speech, free press, and the habeas corpus be held inviolate, save in districts where martial law has been proclaimed.... The Rebellion has destroyed slavery; and the Federal Constitution should be amended [accordingly].... Integrity and economy.... in the administration.... in time of war, the want of them is criminal.... The right of asylum.... is a recognized principle of American liberty.... The 'Monroe Doctrine' [also].... The gratitude and support of the nation are due to the faithful soldiers..... The one-term policy for the presidency.... should be maintained by Constitutional amendment.... The President and Vice-President shall be elected by a direct vote of the people..... Reconstruction of the rebellious States belongs to the people, through their representatives in Congress, and not to the Executive. DEMOCRATIC; George B. McClellan, candidate.
Electoral vote, 21;
Popular vote, 1,808,725.

Platform.—"Resolved, That in the future, as in the past, we will adhere with unswerving fidelity to the Union under the Constitution.... That after four years of failure to restore the Union by the experiment of war, during which, under the pretense of a military necessity of a war power higher than the Constitution, the Constitution itself has been disregarded in every part;.... justice, humanity, liberty, and the public welfare demand that immediate efforts be made for a cessation of hostilities, with a view to an ultimate convention of all the States;.... that.... peace may be restored on the basis of the Federal Union of all the States. That the direct interference of the military authority.... in the recent elections.... was a shameful violation of the Constitution; and the repetition of such acts.... will be held as revolutionary, and resisted.... That the aim and object of the Democratic party is to preserve the Federal Union and the rights of the States unimpaired;.... and they hereby declare that they consider the administrative usurpations of extraordinary and dangerous powers not granted by the Constitution.... as calculated to prevent a restoration of the Union.... That the shameful disregard of the administration to its duty.... to our fellow-citizens,.... prisoners of war,.... deserves the severest reprobation.... formally assumed, December 20, 1860: "We, the people of South Carolina, in convention assembled, do declare and ordain.... that South Carolina, in the exercise of her sovereign will as an independent State, acceded to the Federal Union [May 23, 1788].... and that, in the exercise of the same sovereign will, it is her right.... to recede from the said Federal Union."

The other seceding States took the same ground.

"Our new government," said Alex. H. Stevens, March 21, 1861, "is founded upon exactly the opposite idea [to the equality of races]; its foundations are laid, its cornerstone rests upon the great truth that the negro is not equal to the white man; that slavery—subordination to the superior race—is his natural and normal condition.... The negro, by nature, or by the curse against Canaan, is fitted for that condition which he occupies in our system,.... and by experience we know that it is best, not only for the superior but for the inferior race, that it should be so. It is, indeed, in conformity with the ordinance of the Creator."

REPUBLICAN; Platform—"We congratulate the country on the assured success of the Reconstruction policy of Congress, as evidenced by the adoption, in the majority of the States lately in rebellion, of constitutions securing equal civil and political rights to all..... The guarantee by Congress of equal suffrage to all loyal men at the South was demanded by every consideration of public safety, of gratitude, and of justice, and must be maintained .... We denounce all forms of repudiation as a national crime. It is due to the labor of the nation that taxation should be equalized and reduced as rapidly as the national faith will permit. The national debt, contracted as it has been for the preservation of the Union for all time to come, should be extended over a fair period for redemption.... The best policy to diminish our burden of debts is to so improve our credit that capitalists will seek to loan us money at lower rates of interest than we now pay and must continue to pay, so long as repudiation, partial or total, open or covert, is threatened or suspected. The government ....should be administered with the strictest economy. We profoundly deplore the tragic death of Abraham Lincoln, and regret the accession to the presidency of Andrew Johnson.... No citizen.... must be liable to arrest and imprisonment by any foreign power for acts done or words spoken in this country .... We denounce the fraud and violence practiced by the Democracy in Southern States by which the will of the voter is defeated, as dangerous to....free institutions, and we solemnly arraign that party as being the guilty recipient of the fruits ....and pledge our....efforts to promote....such legislation as will secure to every citizen, of whatever race and color, the full and complete recognition, possession and exercise of all civil and political rights."

We condemn the retirement of fractional currency and small denominations of greenbacks, and demand their restoration. We demand the issue of the hoards of money now locked up in the U. S. Treasury by applying them to the payment of the public debt now due. We denounce as dangerous to our republican institutions those methods and policies of the Democratic and Republican parties....the establishment of land, railroad, money, and other....monopolies, and we demand [the restoration of their powers] to the people....That policy which has granted to corporations vast tracts of lands, and we demand....[restoration of] all such....as have been forfeited....We demand Congressional regulation of inter-state commerce. NOTES.

For the method of electing president and vice-president until 1804, see Constitution, Art. II, Sec. 1.

At the election of 1789, New York had not passed an electoral law; North Carolina and Rhode Island had not ratified the Constitution. The three were entitled to eighteen votes, which would have made the total electoral vote 91, as provided by the Constitution itself. There were two vacancies in each of the electoral colleges of Maryland and Virginia, making "not cast, 4."

March 1, 1792, Congress enacted that the presidential electors of each State should meet at the place designated by the Legislature on the first Wednesday in December, and make three copies of the votes cast by them, one to be sent by special messenger to the president of the U. S. Senate, another by mail to the same, and the third to be deposited in the archives of the U. S. district court having jurisdiction over the place of meeting. These certified electoral votes of all the States to be opened before both houses of Congress on the second Wednesday in February and counted by the president of the Senate, and the result officially declared by him.

In the election of 1792, Vermont, admitted March 4, 1791, and Kentucky, June 1, 1792, with the original thirteen (all of which had previously ratified the Constitution) made the "States voting, 15." The apportionment act of 1792, based on the census of 1790, and fixing the rate of representation in Congress as one to 33,000 of population, had raised the membership of that body to 105, and, with the 30 Senators—two for each of the 15 States—made the "total electoral vote, 135. Maryland had two vacancies and Vermont one, making "not cast, 3."

In the election of 1796, Tennessee, admitted June 1, 1796, the 16th State, with one representative and two senators—three votes—made "total electoral vote, 138." By the method of election then prevailing, Jefferson, though the leader of the opposition, became vice-president; and President Adams and he got 139 votes, with a "total electoral vote, 138." In fact, the electoral vote was twice that number for both offices, and the remaining 137 were divided among eleven other persons.

In the election of 1800, Jefferson and Burr having each received the 73 electoral votes of the Republican party, the election devolved on the House of Representatives, where it took 6 days and 36 ballots to elect Jefferson. This led to the enactment in 1803, and ratification 1804, of the Twelfth Amendment, requiring the electors to "name in their ballots the person voted for as president, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as vice-president."

In the election of 1804, Ohio, admitted November 29, 1802, the 17th State, added three electoral votes to the 173 to which the other 16 States were entitled by the census of 1800. The ratio of representation remained unchanged at 33,000, but the membership of the House was raised from 105 to 141, owing to the increase in population. Fifteen States gave their electoral vote to Jefferson, except two of Maryland's, which with the nine of Connecticut and the three of Delaware were given to Pinckney.

In the election of 1808, one of Kentucky's constituted the "not cast, 1." Of the 128 Republican electoral votes, Madison received 122, and Clinton 6, of New York's 19.

In the election of 1812, Louisiana, admitted April 8, 1812, the 18th State, added three electoral votes to the 215 to which the other 17 States became entitled by the census of 1810, on the new ratio of one representative to 35,000 of population, which had raised the membership of the House to 181. One of Ohio's was the vote "not cast, 1."

In the election of 1816, Indiana, admitted December 11, 1816, the 19th State, added three electoral votes, making the "total electoral vote, 221." Three of Maryland's and one of Delaware's male the votes "not cast, 4."

In the election of 1820, Mississippi, admitted December 10, 1817, Illinois, December 3, 1818; Alabama, December 14, 1819; Missouri, March 2, 1820 (though not finally, by proclamation of president, until August 10, 1821), each with three votes; and Maine, March 15, 1820, with 9, of which 7 were taken from Massachusetts, added 14 votes, making the "total electoral vote, 235." One each of Mississippi, Pennsylvania and Tennessee, made the votes "not cast, 3."

February 27, 1821, after a political struggle of two years, Congress passed an act admitting Missouri as a slave State, but forbidding the extension of slavery north of latitude 36 deg. 30 min. This arrangement between the conflicting sections, North and South, on the slavery question, is known as the Missouri Compromise.

The apportionment act of 1823, based on the census of 1820, and fixing the ratio as 1 to 40,000, raised the membership of the House to 213, making the "total electoral vote, 261."

In the election of 1824, presidential electors were elected by the people in all the States (until then they had been chosen by the legislatures) except Del., Ga., La., N. Y., S. C. and Vt.

In the election of 1828, the popular vote system of choosing presidential electors was used by all the States except South Carolina, which did not adopt it until 1868. In the campaign of 1828 the party names of Democratic and National Republican were formally adopted, though in use for some years, to distinguish the diverging sections into which the old Republican party had divided. They broadly designated the surviving issue between "strict" and "loose constructionist" of the Constitution, with other points of difference as noted in the text.

In the election of 1832, the ratio of representation of 1 to 47,700, based on the census of 1830, had raised the membership of the House to 240, making the "total electoral vote, 288." Two of Maryland's made the "votes not cast, 2."

Of the 220 Democratic electoral votes Jackson received 219, and Floyd the 11 ("Anti-Jackson") of South Carolina, which then had no popular vote.

The American Anti-Slavery Society, permanently established on an enduring basis in 1833, having succeeded several temporary and local associations in the same line of thought and endeavor, though not a political organization, exercised a potent influence on the destinies of parties for a period of thirty years, until the abolition of slavery, January 1, 1863.

Platform:—"Whereas, slavery is contrary to the principles of natural justice of our republican form of government and of the Christian religion, and is destructive of the prosperity of the country, while it is endangering the peace, union and liberties of the States; and, whereas, we believe in the duty and interest of the masters immediately to emancipate their slaves, ...we do hereby agree to form ourselves into a Society..... The object of this Society is the abolition of slavery in the United States.....it shall aim to elevate the character and condition of the people of color.... but will never, in any way, countenance the oppressed in vindicating their rights by resorting to physical force.... The right to enjoy liberty is inalienable..... It is piracy to buy or steal a native African..... Surely the sin is as great to enslave an American.....The measures of the Society shall be such only as the opposition of moral purity to moral corruption; the destruction of error by the potency of truth; the overthrow of prejudice by the power of love; and the abolition of slavery by the spirit of repentance."

The Anti-Masonic party was based upon the alleged murder by the Masons of Wm. Morgan, for exposing the secrets of the order, and upon the supposed subordination by them of their duties as citizens to their obligations as Masons.

In the election of 1836, Arkansas, admitted June 15, 1836, and Michigan, January 26, 1837, each with three votes, made the "total electoral vote, 294." Michigan's vote would most probably have been questioned had it affected the result, as she had not fully complied with the requirements for admission at the time of counting the electoral vote.

The vice-president, R. M. Johnson, was elected by the Senate, he having received only 147 electoral votes, not a majority—only half—of the 294 cast.

The electoral votes designated as Democratic and Whig, more strictly denote Van Buren Democrats and opponents of Van Buren, both Democrats and Whigs.

January 23, 1845, Congress enacted that the presidential election, or more strictly the election of presidential electors, should take place in all the States on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November of the presidential or fourth year.

In the election of 1844, the ratio of representation of 1 to 70,680, based on the census of 1840, reduced the membership of the House to 223, making the "total electoral vote 275."

In the election of 1848, Florida, admitted March 3, 1845; Texas, December 29, 1845; Iowa, December 28, 1846, and Wisconsin, May 29, 1848—the first with three and the others with four each—made the "total electoral vote 290."

Platform of the Liberty League—an extreme wing of the Liberty party: "That the Federal Government possesses the Constitutional power to abolish slavery not only in the District of Columbia and the Territories, but in the States, also, and that it ought to exercise that power."

In 1846 the political nicknames of Hunkers and Barnburners were used to designate two sections of the Democratic party. The former were the conservative, or "old fogy" division, while the latter were the progressive, anti-slavery section.

John P. Hale, the candidate of the Free Democracy in 1852, had been nominated by the Liberty party in 1847, but withdrew in 1848 in favor of the nominee of the Free Soil party of that year.

In the election of 1850, California, admitted Sept. 9, 1850, the 31st State—as part of the compromise measure of that year, between the North and the South on the slavery question, and known as the Omnibus bill—and the apportionment act of 1852, of 1 to 93,423, based on the census of 1850, raised the membership of the House, including two from California, to 234, and made the "total electoral vote, 296."

Resolved by Congress in 1851: "That the series of acts passed during the first session of the 31st Congress [the Omnibus bill], known as compromises are regarded as a final adjustment and a permanent settlement of the questions therein embraced, and should be maintained and executed as such." Like the Missouri Compromise of thirty years before, it tried to establish irreconcilable principles, Liberty and Slavery in one body politic.

In 1851, the Kansas-Nebraska bill of Stephen A. Douglass, re-opened the whole question and virtually nullified both Compromises by permitting the inhabitants of the two new Territories contemplated, to adopt or reject slavery within their borders. It became a law May 31, 1854. This led to the civil war and political conflict in Kansas, 1854 to 1857.

In the election of 1856, no new State having been admitted, and there having been no new apportionment since 1852, the "total electoral vote, 296." remained unchanged.

The Dred Scott Decision, March 4, 1857, that a person whose "ancestors had been imported into this country and held as slaves," had no right to sue in U. S. Court, virtually declared that slavery was a national institution.

In October, 1859, the Slavery agitation received fresh impetus from "John Brown's raid."—an insurrection that broken out at Harper's Ferry, where an armed force of Abolitionists had full possession of the government arsenal.

In the election of 1860, Minnesota, admitted May 11, 1858, with four votes, and Oregon, February 14, 1859, with three, made the "total electoral vote 303."

In the election of 1864, Kansas, admitted January 29, 1861, with three votes, West Virginia, December 31, 1862, with five votes (of which all but the two senatorial were taken from Virginia), and Nevada, October 31, 1864, respectively, the 34th, 35th and 36th States, together with the apportionment based on the census of 1860, and raising the membership of the House to 242, made the "total electoral vote, 314."

In the election of 1868, Nebraska, admitted February 9, 1867, the 37th State, with three votes, made the "total electoral vote, 317."

In the election of 1872, the apportionment act—ratio, 1 to 131,425—based on the census of 1870, raised the membership of the House to 292, and made the "total electoral vote, 366."

Six States—Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Tennessee and Texas having 66 electoral votes, elected Greeley electors, but Mr. Greeley dying November 29, only three were cast for him, and 4 of the remainder, 42 were cast for Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, 18 for B. Gratz Brown, of Mo., 2 for Chas. J. Jenkins, of Ga., and 1 for David Davis, of Ill. From Arkansas and Louisiana, two sets of electors obtained contested certificates. The former was entitled to 6, and the latter to 8 electoral votes. These 14 and the 3 cast for the deceased, Mr. Greeley was rejected by Congress, making, "not cast, 17."

Colorado, admitted Aug. 1, 1876, the 38th State, raised the electoral vote to 369.

Florida, Oregon and South Carolina, returned each two lists of electors, and Louisiana three. By an act approved Jan. 29, 1877, an Electoral Commission of fifteen members—five Justices of Supreme Court, five Senators, and five Representatives—was instituted to count the votes for the presidency. By a vote of 8 to 7 they counted the four disputed States above mentioned for the Republican candidate, R. B. Hayes, who was declared president.

In 1880, a "National Liberty" convention adopted the following platform briefly stated. 1. Taxation of Church property; 2. Abolition of Sabbath laws and government chaplaincies; 3. Secularization of public School education. 4. Refusal of appropriations for religious purposes.

The National Christian, or Anti-Secret Society party, also held a convention, issued a platform in which the chief plank was opposition to all oath-bound secret societies, and nominated a presidential candidate, J. W. Phelps.

The apportionment act of 1883—ratio, 1 to 151,192—based on the census of 1880, raised the membership of the House to 325, making the "total electoral vote 401."

Alphabetical List of Towns and Counties.

The following is an alphabetical list, by states, of every county, city, town village and post-office in the United States, and shows the population of the same according to the census of 1890. There are some small places whose population was taken together with the civil district in which they are located, and the exact figure being unknown are marked ×. State capitals and large cities are in caps, thus — BOSTON. County towns are in full-faced type, thus — Buffalo. Post-offices are in Roman, thus — Hinsdale. Places not post offices are in italic, thus — Ashby. Express offices are indicated thus — ●. The index letters refer to that portion of the state in which the several counties are located, as follows: —

N. . . . . .Northern	E. . . . . Eastern	N.E. . . . . North-Eastern	N.W. . . . . North Western
S. . . . . .Southern	W. . . . . .Western	S.E. . . . . South-Eastern	S.W. . . . . South-Western
	C. . . . . .Central

To find any place, first find the county in which it is situated, using the index letters to ascertain its location. The county name being large is quickly seen, and the town will be readily found within its boundaries if on the map. Many small places have been left off the maps owing to lack of space to engrave them, but they will all be found in this list, and their locations can be readily determined by means of the index letters.
